PREFACE.

LONG before the report of the Committee of Ten gave expression to the thought, teachers of Latin throughout the country felt the need of a proper stepping-stone from the work of the first year to Caesar. The recommendation of the Committee, therefore, that such books as the Breviary of Eutropius, Gradatim, and Viri Romae should be read as introductory to Caesar or Nepos was most heartily received.

Viri Romae is a comparatively new book to American schools, though it has long enjoyed great and deserved popularity in the schools of France and Germany. It is a compilation made from Cicero, Livy, Sallust, Seneca, Valerius Maximus, and other Roman writers, by Charles François Lhomond, Professor Emeritus of the University of Paris (1727-1794). It is simplified Latin, but not manufactured Latin. Much is taken verbatim from the authors named, and such changes as occur consist in the omission of unnecessary details and in the removal of difficulties in order and syntax. The style of the authors has been necessarily somewhat changed, but the Latin is pure and the expressions classical.

The real and lively interest that the book inspires commends it to favor. The toilsome acquisition of grammar and syntax during the first year creates an urgent need for an interesting and easy author, whose perusal shall fix the foundations of the language firmly in the mind. Caesar's Gallic War, by its difficulty and lack of intrinsic interest, has discouraged and overwhelmed many a promising pupil at this stage of his progress. The Viri Romae, under the form of biography, the most healthful and the most fascinating kind of literature for the young, gives a review of Roman history from Romulus to Augustus. The deeds, adventures, vicissitudes, and virtues of Rome's greatest men, told in classic phrase, are sure to create a lively interest, and to give to the student an introduction to Roman history and to Roman life and custom, such as will be of great benefit to him when he comes to read the authors that follow.

The text of the selections contained in this volume has been taken, with but little variation, from C. Holzer's tenth edition (Stuttgart, 1889). What changes have been made are mainly in orthography and punctuation. Holzer's revision of Lhomond's text consisted in following the original authors more closely, in omitting some selections, and in adding interesting anecdotes to others.

The quantity of all long vowels has been marked to assist beginners in forming correct habits of pronunciation. The authority for these has been Lewis's Elementary Latin Dictionary, 1895 edition, as being the latest and most widely followed.

Thanks are due for assistance and suggestions to Mr. Wm. C. Collar, headmaster of the Roxbury Latin School, and to Mr. John Tetlow, headmaster of the Boston Girls' High and Latin Schools, general editors of this series. The editor is under obligations also to Miss Helen B. Muir, assistant in Ancient Languages in this institution, and to Mr. C. D. Crittenden of the Central High School, Grand Rapids, Mich., for reading proof and for work on the vocabulary.

HINTS TO TEACHERS.

1. HOW TO READ LATIN.—As this is the first continuous reading in Latin that many students using this book will do, it is very important that the right method of reading be adopted from the outset. First, and most important, the text should be read and understood in the order in which it stands. Any rearrangement of the order of the words and thought destroys that apprehension of Latin idiom and style which should be most carefully cultivated. As each word is met it should be disposed of as far as may be. If it should prove impossible to settle all points definitely, keep the mind expectant until the progress of the sentence settles all that was doubtful. It is thus that the Romans read and understood their language, and we must learn to do likewise if we would master it and partake of its spirit. Prof. W. G. Hale's pamphlet on the 'Art of Reading Latin' (Ginn & Co.), gives a clear exposition of this method.

2. READING AT SIGHT.—No discipline is more useful for inspiring confidence in pupils than frequent practice in sight reading. Much of the Viri Romae is peculiarly adapted to this purpose, and though no pages of the text have been especially set apart and annotated for it, still, with such help as the teacher may deem necessary, almost any passage may be so studied, and the effect is sure to be beneficial and inspiring to the class.

3. THE TRANSLATION OF LATIN.—To read Latin is one thing; to translate it is quite another. To read Latin is to get the thought without a conscious appeal to the English equivalent; the translator will clothe this thought in English thoroughly idiomatic and as good as his command of English makes possible. The so-called 'literal translation' has no place in scholarly work. It is but seldom that the Latin idiom and the English idiom are so far identical as to make a literal translation tolerable. Students that are allowed to translate literally, are in danger of doing more to ruin their English than they will ever gain from the study of Latin. On the contrary, there can be no doubt of the excellent training in the mother tongue that a good translation affords. Students should be asked at frequent intervals to hand in such translations.

4. THE PRONOUNCING OF LATIN. — Students should be taught to distinguish carefully between the long and the short vowel sounds. To this end the quantity of all vowels long by nature has been marked. Many students do not have their attention called to this important point until they begin to scan verse, or perhaps not until they enter college. For one to reform who has been careless in his Latin speech for many years, is a most discouraging task. Accuracy should be insisted upon from the outset, and no faulty pronunciation should ever be heard in the class-room. Quantities may be learned gradually by marking them in all written work during the first and second years. This will insure care and accuracy in the years to come without further formal instruction. During the second year Latin should always be pronounced before translation. Often it is useful to read the review lesson without a translation; seeking, so far as possible, to convey the meaning by proper expression in pronunciation. Anecdotes and striking passages should often be learned as a memory exercise, and spoken before the class. Sometimes the teacher should read the review, and the class translate with books closed. It is important that the ear and the eye should be alike trained.

5. THE NOTES. — The notes to the text have not been made chiefly grammatical. References are usually given but once, and similar constructions are referred to the first instance of each for comparison and explanation. This method of teaching syntax has proved more effective than repeated reference to the same principle without comparison. Such further drill as is necessary is left to the teacher. It is well to bear in mind that too much attention to syntax is an absolute hindrance to idiomatic and appreciative translation.

On the other hand, the aim of the notes has been to interest the student in ancient life and custom, and to create about him that classic atmosphere without which all our teaching is vain. Modern life is so far removed from ancient life, that the beginner in Latin finds himself even more strange to his environment than to the language. He needs an interpreter to the former quite as much as to the latter. The difficulties that students find with the ancient languages and their lack of enthusiasm for them are often due to their living in an unfamiliar world without guide to its mysteries and beauties. It is to satisfy this larger need that the text has been supplied with maps, illustrations, copious references to collateral reading, and with such concise information as seemed most helpful. It is in directing the collateral reading of his pupils that a teacher can be of perhaps the largest service, and he can accomplish this best by having in the reference library of his school such books as have been recommended (see pp. 72, 73).

6. LATIN COMPOSITION. — It is the unanimous testimony of teachers that nothing can take the place of frequent practice in speaking and in writing idiomatic Latin. In no other way can a knowledge of words, forms, constructions, and idioms be so easily acquired. Prose exercises for oral and written translation have been added to this book, based upon the text, and accompanied by appropriate grammatical references. These exercises have been carefully graded and adapted to a systematic development of syntactical principles. It is hoped that they will be found to combine the advantages of both of the methods of teaching Latin composition most in vogue ; that of using short sentences to illustrate grammatical principles, and that of using continuous English with no systematic instruction in syntax. The editor has found that each method has its advantages and its disadvantages. Perhaps he has been so fortunate as to solve the problem by combining the advantages of both. Teachers will of course use their own judgment in determining the amount and frequency of work in Latin composition. Many find it most useful to have some oral and written work every day. Such will be able to complete these exercises in twenty weeks or less. Others, that proceed more slowly, may find it advantageous to continue with them even after the text has been finished and some other author begun, in order that the systematic study of syntax may not be interrupted and prematurely abandoned. In oral translation, quick, sharp, accurate work should be insisted upon. A minute on each sentence is sufficient. For obvious reasons many more lessons have been devoted to the constructions of the moods than to those of the cases ; but all that is most essential to a sound knowledge of syntax will be found fully illustrated.

7. WORD-GROUPS.—Immediately preceding the vocabulary, some pages will be found containing groups of words selected from the text and based on the commonest Latin roots. It is suggested that students be given a few lessons on the formation of Latin words, and the meanings of the most frequently recurring prefixes and suffixes, and that then a systematic study of these groups be made. Want of a vocabulary is a fatal obstruction to the easy reading of Latin, and there is no easier way of building one up than by memorizing lists of words fundamentally connected by a common root. A thorough knowledge of even the few roots contained in this list may form the basis for a vocabulary surprisingly large.

8. THE VOCABULARY. — The vocabulary has been constructed not merely for help in translating, but to afford abundant opportunity for etymological and comparative word study. Primary derivations have been given only when the roots are included in the list forming the basis for the Word-Groups ; secondary etymologies are given in all cases. In addition, every word is referred to the text for illustrations of its use and range of meaning.

URBIS ROMAE VIRI INLUSTRES.

I. Romani imperi exordium.

Proca, rēx Albānōrum, Numitōrem et Amūlium filiōs habuit. Numitōri, quī nātū māior erat, rēgnū reliquit; sed Amūlius pulsō frātre rēgnāvit et, ut eum subole privāret, Rhēam Silviam, ēius filiam, Vestae sacerdōtem fēcit, quae tamen Rōmulum et Remum 5 geminōs ēdidit. Eā rē cōgnitā Amūlius ipsam in vincula coniēcit, parvulōs alveō impositōs abiēcit in Tiberim, quī tunc forte super ripās erat effūsus; sed relābente flūmine eōs aqua in siccō reliquit. Vāstae tum in eis locis sōlitudinēs erant. Lupa, ut fāmā trā- 10 ditum est, ad vāgitum accurrit, infantēs linguā lambit, ūbera eōrum ōrī admōvit mātremque sē gessit.

Cum lupa saepius ad parvulōs velutī ad catulōs reverterētur, Faustulus, pāstor rēgius, rē animadversā eōs tulit in casam et Accae Lārentiae coniugī dedit 15 ēducandōs. Adultī deinde hī inter pāstōrēs primō lūdicris certāminibus virēs auxere, deinde vēnandō saltūs peragrāre et latrōnēs ā rapinā pecorum arcere coepērunt. Quā rē cum eis insidiātī essent latrōnēs, Remus captus est, Rōmulus vī sē dēfendit. Tum 20 Faustulus necessitāte compulsus indicāvit Rōmulō

Intereā Remum latrōnēs ad Amūlium rēgem perdūxērunt, eum accūsantēs quasi Numitōris agrōs infestāre
5 solitus esset ; itaque Remus ā rēge Numitōri ad supplicium trāditus est ; at cum Numitor, adulēscentis vultum cōsiderāns, aetātem minimēque servilem indolem comparāret, haud procul erat quin nepōtem āgnōsceret. Nam Remus ōris lineāmentis erat mātři simillimus
10 aetāsque expositiōnis temporibus congruēbat. Ea rēs dum Numitōris animum anxium tenet, repente Rōmulus supervenit, frātrem liberat, interēptō Amūliō avum Numitōrem in rēgnum restituit.

Deinde Rōmulus et Remus urbem, in eisdem locis
15 ubi expositi ubique educāti erant, condidērunt ; sed ortā inter eōs contentiōne uter nōmen novae urbi daret eamque imperiō regeret, auspicia dēcrēvērunt adhibēre. Remus prior sex volturēs, Rōmulus postea duodecim vīdit. Sic Rōmulus, victor auguriō, urbem
20 Rōmam vocāvit. Ad novae urbis tūtēlam sufficere vāllum vidēbātur. Cūius angustiās inridēns cum Remus saltū id trāiēcisset, eum irātus Rōmulus interfēcit his increpāns verbis : “ Sic deinde, quicumque alius trānsiliet moenia mea.” Ita sōlus potitus est imperiō 25 Rōmulus.

II. Romulus, Romanorum rex primus.

Rōmulus imāginem urbis magis quam urbem fēcerat; incolae deerant. Erat in proximō lūcus; hunc asyllum fēcit. Et statim eō mīra vīs latrōnum pāstōrumque cōnfūgit. Cum vērō uxōrēs ipse populusque nōn habērent, lēgātōs circā vicinās gentēs mīsīt, quī societātem 5 cōnūbiumque novō populō peterent. Nusquam benignē audita lēgātiō est; lūdibrium etiam additum: “Cūr nōn fēminis quoque asyllum aperuistis? Id enim compār foret cōnūbium.” Rōmulus aegritūdinem animī dissimulāns lūdōs parat; indicī deinde 10 finitimis spectāculum iubet. Multī convēnere studiō etiam videndae novae urbis, māximē Sabīnī cum liberis et coniugibus. Ubi spectāculī tempus vēnit eōque conversae mentēs cum oculis erant, tum signō datō iuvenēs Rōmānī discurrunt, virginēs rapiunt. 15

Haec fuit statim causa bellī. Sabīnī enim ob virginēs raptās bellum adversus Rōmānōs sūmpsērunt et, cum Rōmae appropinquārent, Tarpēiam virginem nacti sunt, quae aquam forte extrā moenia petītum ierat. Hūius pater Rōmānae praeerat arcī. Titus Tatius, 20 Sabīnōrum dux, Tarpēiae optiōnem mūneris dedit, si exercitum suum in Capitōlium perdūxisset. Illa petiit quod Sabīnī in sinistris manibus gererent, vidēlicet et ānulōs et armillās. Quibus dolōsē prōmissis Tarpēia Sabīnōs in arcem perdūxit, ubi Tatius scūtīs eam obruī 25 iussit; nam et ea in laevis habuerant. Sic impia prōditiō celerī poenā vindicāta est.

Deinde Rōmulus ad certāmen prōcessit et in eō locō ubi nunc Rōmānum Forum est, pūgnam cōnseruit. Primō impetū vir inter Rōmānōs insignis, nōmine Hostīlius, fortissimē dimicāns cecidit; cūius
10 seu forte seu divinitus restitit. Itaque proelium redintegrātur; sed raptae mulierēs crinibus passis ausae sunt sē inter tēla volantia inferre et hinc patrēs, hinc virōs ōrantēs, pācem conciliārunt.

Rōmulus foedere cum Tatiō ictō et Sabīnōs in 15 urbem recēpit et rēgnum cum Tatiō sociāvit. Vērūm nōn ita multō post occisō Tatiō ad Rōmulum potentātus omnis recidit. Centum deinde ex seniōribus ēlēgit, quōrum cōnsiliō omnia ageret, quōs senātōrēs nōmināvit propter senectūtem. Trēs equitum cen-
20 turiās cōstituit, populum in trigintā cūriās distribuit. His ita ōdinātis cum ad exercitum lūstrandum cōntiōnem in campō ad Caprae palūdem habēret, subitō coorta est tempestās cum māgnō fragōre tonitribusque et Rōmulus ē cōspectū ablātus est. Ad deōs trāns-25 isse volgō crēditus est; cui rei fidem fēcit Iūlius Proculus, vir nōbilis. Ortā enim inter patrēs et plēbem sēditione, in cōntiōnem prōcessit iūreiūrandō adfirmāns vīsum ā sē Rōmulum augustiōre fōrmā, eundemque praecipere ut sēditionibus abstinērent et rem

III. Numa Pompilius, Romanorum rex secundus.

715-673 B.C.

Successit Rōmulō Numa Pompilius, vir inclutā iūstitiā et religiōne. Is Curibus, ex oppidō Sabinōrum, accitus est. Quī cum Rōmam vēnisset, ut populum 5 ferum religiōne mītigāret, sacra plūrima instituit. Āram Vestae cōsecrāvit et ignem in ārā perpetuō alendum virginibus dedit. Flāminem Iovis sacerdotem creāvit eumque insignī veste et curūli sellā adōrnāvit. Dicitur quondam ipsum Iovem ē caelō ēlicuisse. 10 Hīc ingentibus fulminibus in urbem dēmissis dēscendit in nemus Aventinum, ubi Numam docuit quibus sacris fulmina essent prōcūranda, et praetereā imperi certa pignora populō Rōmānō datūrum sē esse prōmisit. Numa laetus rem populō nūntiāvit. Postridiē omnēs 15 ad aedēs rēgiās convēnērunt silentēsque exspectābant quid futūrum esset. Atque sōle ortō dēlābitur ē caelō scissō scūtum, quod ancile appellāvit Numa. Id nē fūrtō auferri posset, Māmuriū fabrum ūndecim scūta eādē fōrmā fabricāre iussit. Duodecim autem Saliōs 20 Mārtis sacerdotēs lēgit, quī ancilia, sēcrēta illa imperi pignora, custōdirent et Kalendis Mārtiis per urbem canentēs et rite saltantēs ferrent.

Annum in duodecim mēnsēs ad cursum lūnae dēscripsit; nefāstōs fāstōsque diēs fēcit; portās Iānō 25 geminō aedificāvit, ut esset index pācis et bellī; nam apertus, in armis esse civitatem, clausus, pacatos circa omnes populos, significabat.

Leges quoque plurimas et utiles tulit Numa. Ut vero maiorem institutis suis auctoritatem conciliaret, simulavit sibi cum dea Egeria esse colloquia nocturna, eiusque monitu se omnia quae ageret facere. Lucus erat, quem medium fons perenni rigabat aqua; eo saepe Numa sine arbitris se inferbat, velut ad congressum deae: ita omnium animos ea pietate imbu¹⁰ it ut fides ac iusiurandum non minus quam legum et poenarum metus cives contineret. Bellum quidem nullum gessit, sed non minus civitati profuit quam Romulus. Morbo extinctus in Ianiculo monte sepultus est. Ita duo deinceps reges, ille bello, hic pace, civitatem auxerunt. Romulus septem et triginta¹⁵ regnavit annos, Numa tres et quadraginta.

IV. Tullus Hostilius, Romanorum rex tertius.

Mortuo Numā Tullus Hostilius rex creatus est. Hic non solum proximō regi dissimilis, sed ferocior etiam Romulo fuit. Eo regnante bellum inter Albanos et²⁰ Romanos exortum est. Ducibus Hostilio et Furio placuit rem paucorum certamine finire. Erant apud Romanos trigemini fratres Horatii, tres apud Albanos Curiatii. Cum eis agunt reges, ut pro sua quisque patriam dimicent ferro. Foedus ictum est ea lege, ut²⁵ unde victoria ibi imperium esset.

Icto foedere trigemini arma capiunt et in medium comparatō Tarquinius pecūniā et industriā dignitatem atque etiam Ancī rēgis familiāritatem cōsecutus est; ā quō tūtōr liberis relictus rēgnū intercēpit et ita administrāvit, quasi iūre adeptus esset.

Tarquinius Priscus Latinōs bellō domuit; Circum 5
Māximum aedificāvit; dē Sabinis triumphāvit; mūrum lapideum urbī circumdedit. Equitum centuriās duplicāvit, nōmina mūtāre nōn potuit, deterritus, ut ferunt, Atti Nāvī auctoritāte. Attus enim, eā tempestāte augur inclutus, id fieri posse negābat; nisi avēs ad- 10
dixissent; irātus rēx in experimentum artis eum interrogāvit fieri ne posset quod ipse mente concēpisset; Attus auguriō actō fieri posse respondit. “Atqui hōc,” inquit rēx, “agitābam, num cōtem illam secāre novāculā possem.” “Potes ergo,” inquit augur, et 15 rēx secuisse dicitur. Tarquinius filium tredecim annōrum, quod in proeliō hostem percussisset, prātextā bullāque dōnāvit; unde haec ingenuōrum puerōrum insignia esse coepērunt.

Supererant duo Ancī filii, quī aegrē ferentēs sē paternō rēgnō fraudātōs esse rēgi insidiās parāvērunt. Ex pāstōribus duōs ferōcissimōs dēligunt ad patrandū facinus. Ei simulātā rixā in vestibulō rēgiae tumultuantur. Quōrum clāmōr cum penitus in rēgiam pervēnisset, vocāti ad rēgem pergunt. Primō uterque 25 vōciferārī coepit et certātim alter alterī obstrepere. Cum vērō iūssi essent invicem dicere, ūnus ex compositō rem ōrditur; dumque intentus in eum sē rēx tōtus āvertit, alter ēlātam secūrim in ēius caput dēiēcit, et relictō in volnere tēlō ambō forās sē prōripiunt. 30

VII. Servius Tullius, Romanorum rex sextus.

578-534 B.C.

Post hunc Servius Tullius suscepit imperium genitus ex nōbili fēminā, captivā tamen et famulā. Qui cum in domō Tarquinī Priscī educārētur, ferunt prōdigium visū eventūque mirābile accidisse. Flammae speciēs
 5 pueri dormientis caput amplexa est. Hōc visū Tanaquil summam ei dignitatem portendi intellēxit coniugique suāsit ut eum haud secus ac suos liberōs educāret. Is postquam adolēvit, et fortitudinem et cōsiliō insignis fuit. In proeliō quōdam, in quō rēx Tarquinius
 10 adversus Sabinōs cōflīxit, militibus sēgnius dimicantibus, raptum signum in hostem misit. Cūius recipiendi grātiā Rōmānī tam ācritēr pūgnāverunt ut et signum et victōriam referrent. Quā rē ā Tarquiniō gener adsumptus est; et cum Tarquinius occisus esset, Tana-
 15 quil, Tarquinī uxor, mortem eius cēlāvit populumque ex superiōre parte aedium adlocūta, ait rēgem grave quidem, sed nōn lētāle vōlnus accēpisse eūque petere ut interim, dum convalēsceret, Serviō Tulliō dictō audientēs essent. Sic Servius Tullius rēgnāre coepit, sed 20 rēctē imperium administrāvit. Sabinōs subēgit; mōntēs trēs, Quirinālem, Viminālem, Esquilinum urbī adiūnxit; fossās circā mūrū dūxit. Idem cēnsū ordināvit et populum in classēs et centuriās distribuit.

Servius Tullius aliquod urbī decus addere volēbat.

Diānae cum populō Rōmānō Rōmae in Aventinō mōnte aedificārent. Quō factō bōs mīrae māgnitūdinis cuidam Latinō nāta dīcitur et respōnsum somniō datum eum populum summam imperi habitūrum cūius cīvis bovem illam Diānae immolāsset. Latinus bovem ad fānum Diānae ēgit et causam sacerdoti Rōmānō exposuit. Ille callidus dixit prius eum vivō flūmine manūs abluere dēbēre. [Latinus dum ad Tiberim dēscendit, sacerdos bovem immolāvit. Ita imperium cīvibus sibique glōriam adquisivit.

Servius Tullius filiam alteram ferōcem, mitem alteram habēns, cum Tarquinī filiōs parī esse animō vidēret, ferōcem mīti, mitem ferōci in mātrimōnium dedit, nē duo violenta ingenia mātrimōniō iungerentur. Sed mītēs seu forte seu fraude periērunt; ferōcēs mōrum similitūdō coniūnxit. Statim Tarquinius ā Tulliā incitātus advocātō senātū rēgnum paternum repetere coepit. Quā rē auditā Servius dum ad cūriam contendit, iūssū Tarquinī per gradūs dēiectus et domum refugiēns intēfectus est. Tullia carpentō vecta in Forum properāvit et coniugem ē cūriā ēvocātum prīma rēgem salūtāvit; cūius iūssū cum ē turbā ac tumultū dēcessisset domumque rediret, visō patris corpore mūliōnem cunctantem et frēna inhibentem super ipsum corpus carpentum agere iussit. Unde vicus ille scelerātus dictus est. Servius Tullius rēgnāvit annōs quatuor et quadrāgintā.

VIII. Tarquinius Superbus, Romanorum rex septimus et ultimus.

534-510 B.C.

Tarquinius Superbus rēgnū scelestē occupāvit. Tamen bellō strēnuus Latinōs Sabinōsque domuit. Urbem Gabiōs in potestātem redēgit fraude Sexti fili. Is cum indignē ferret eam urbem ā patre expūgnārī
 5 nōn posse, ad Gabinōs sē contulit, patris saevitiā in sē conquerēns: Benignē ā Gabinīs exceptus paulātim eōrum benevolentiam cōsequitur, fictis blanditiis ita eōs adliciēns ut apud omnēs plūrimū posset et ad postrēmū dux bellī ēligerētur. Tum ē suis ūnum ad
 10 patrem mittit sciscitātū quidnam sē facere vellet. Pater nūntiō fili nihil respondit, sed velut dēliberābundus in hortum trāsiit ibique inambulāns sequente nūntiō altissima papāverū capita baculō dēcussit. Nūntius fessus exspectandō rediit Gabiōs. Sextus 15 cōgnitō silentiō patris et factō intellēxit quid vellet pater. Primōrēs civitātis interēmit patrique urbem sine ūllā dīmiciātiōne trādīdit.

Posteā rēx Ardeam urbem obsidēbat. Ibi cum in castris essent, Tarquinius Collātinus, sorōre rēgis 20 nātus, forte cēnābat apud Sextum Tarquiniū cum iuvenibus rēgiis. Incidit dē uxōribus mentiō: cum suam ūnus quisque laudāret, placuit experiri. Itaque citātis equis Rōmā āvolant; rēgiās nurūs in conviviō et lūxū dēprehendunt. Pergunt inde Collātiā; Lu-

interiectis diēbus Sextus Collātiā rediit et Lucrētiā vim attulit. Illa posterō diē advocātis patre et coniuge rem exposuit et sē cultrō, quem sub veste abditum habēbat, occidit. Conclāmant vir paterque et in exitium rēgum coniūrant. Tarquiniō Rōmam redeuntī 5 clausae sunt urbis portae et exilium indictum.

In antiquis annālibus memoriae haec sunt prōdita. Anus hospita atque incōgnita ad Tarquinium quondam Superbum rēgem adiit, novem librōs ferēns, quōs esse dicēbat divīna ōrācula : eōs sē velle vēnum dare. Tar- 10 quinius pretium percontātus est : mulier nimium atque immēsum poposcit. Rēx, quasi anus aetāte dēsiperet, dērisit. Tum illa foculum cum ignī appōnit et trēs librōs ex novem deūrit ; et, ecquid reliquōs sex eōdem pretiō emere vellet, rēgem interrogāvit. Sed Tar- 15 quinius id multō rīsit magis dixitque anum iam procul dubiō dēlirāre. Mulier ibidem statim trēs aliōs librōs exussit ; atque id ipsum dēnuō placidē rogat, ut trēs reliquōs eōdem illō pretiō emat. Tarquinius ōre iam sēriō atque attentiore animō fit ; eam cōstantiam cōn- 20 fidentiamque nōn neglegendam intellegit ; librōs trēs reliquōs mercātur nihilō minōre pretiō quam quod erat petatum prō omnibus. Sed eam mulierem tunc ā Tarquiniō digressam postea nusquam loci visam cōstitit. Librī trēs in sacrariō conditi Sibyllinique appellāti. 25 Ad eōs, quasi ad ōrāculum, Quīndecim viri adeunt, cum dii immortalēs publicē cōsulendi sunt.

IX. Horatius Cocles.

507 B.C.

Porsena, rēx Etruscōrum, ad restituendōs in rēgnum Tarquiniōs infestō exercitū Rōmam vēnit. Primō impetū lāniculum cēpit. Nōn umquam aliās ante tantus terror Rōmānōs invāsit; adeō valida rēs tum Clūsina
5 erat māgnumque Porsenae nōmen. Ex agris in urbem dēmigrant: urbem ipsam saepiunt praesidiis. Alia urbis pars mūrīs, alia Tiberi obiectō tūta vidēbātur. Pōns sublicius iter paene hostibus dedit, nisi ūnus vir fuisset Horātius Coclēs, illō cōgnōmine appellātus,
10 quod in aliō proeliō oculum āmiserat. Is extrēmā pontis parte occupātā aciem hostium sōlus sustinuit dōnec pōns ā tergō interromperētur. Ipsa audācia obstupēfecit hostēs; ponte rescissō armātus in Tiberim dēsiluit et multis superincidentibus tēlis incol-
15 umis ad suōs trānāvit. Grāta ergā tantam virtūtem civitās fuit; ei tantum agrī publicē datum est quantum ūnō diē circumarāvit. Statua quoque ei in Comitio posita.

X. Menenius Agrippa.

494 B.C.

Menēnius Agrippa concordiam inter patrēs plēbem-20 que restituit. Nam cum plēbs ā patribus in mōntem sacrum sēcessisset, quod tribūta simul et militiam nōn tolerāret, Agrippa, vir fācundus, ad plēbem missus est. Quī intrōmissus in castra nihil aliud nisi hōc nārrāsse fertur. “Ōlim hūmānī artūs, cum ventrem ōtiōsum cernerent, ab eō discordārunt, cōspīrāruntque nē manūs ad ōs cibum ferrent nēve ōs acciperet datum nēve dentēs cōficerent. ¶ At dum ventrem domāre volunt, ipsi quoque dēfēcērunt, tōtumque corpus ad extrēmam tābem vēnit; īnde intellēxērunt ventris 5 quoque haud sēgne ministerium esse eumque acceptōs cibōs concoquere et per omnia membra dīgerere, et cum eō in grātiam rediērunt. Sic senātus et plēbēs, quasi ūnum corpus, discordiā pereunt, concordiā valent.”

Hāc fābulā Menēnius flēxit hominum mentēs: plēbs 10 in urbem regressa est. Creāvit tamen tribūnōs, qui libertātem suā nōbilitātis superbiā dēfenderent.
 Paulō post mortuus est Menēnius, vir omnī vitā pariter patribus ac plēbī cārus. Is tamen in tantā paupertāte dēcessit ut eum plēbs conlātis sextantibus sepelīret, 15 locum sepulcrō senātus pūblicē daret. Potest cōnsōlārī pauperēs Menēnius, sed multō magis docēre locuplētēs quam nōn sit necessariā solidam laudem cupientī nimis anxīa divitiārum comparātiō.

Lucius Virginius Centurio
 XI. Lucius Virginius Centurio.

451 B.C.

Annō trecentēsīmō ab urbe conditā prō duōbus cōn- 20
 sulibus decem virī creāti sunt, quī adlātās ē Graeciā lēgēs populō prōpōnerent. Duodecim tabulis eae sunt perscriptae. Cēterum decem virī suā ipsōrum insolētiā in exitium ācti sunt. Nam ūnus ex eīs Appius Claudius virginem plēbēiam adamāvit. Quam cum 25
 Appius nōn posset pretiō ac spē pellicere, ūnum ē clientibus subōrnāvit, quī eam in servitūtem dēposce-ret, facile victūrum sē spērāns, cum ipse esset et accū-sātor et iūdex. Lūcius Virgīnius, puellae pater, tunc aberat militiae causā. Cliēns igitur virgīni venienti in 5 Forum (namque ibi in tabernis litterārum lūdi erant) iniēcit manum, adfirmāns suam esse servam; eam sequī sē iubet; nī faciat, minātur sē vī abstractūrum.

Pavidā puellā stupente, ad clāmōrem nūtrīcis fit concursus. Itaque cum ille puellam vī nōn posset ab-10 dūcere, eam vocat in iūs ipsō Appiō iūdice.

Intereā missi nūntiī ad Virgīnium properant. Is, commeātū sūmptō, ā castris profectus primā luce Rō-mam advēnit, cum iam civitās in Forō expectātiōne ērēcta stābat. Virgīnius statim in Forum lacrimābun-15 dus et civium opem implōrāns filiam suam dēdūcit.
Neque eō sētius Appiūs, cum in tribūnal ēscendisset, Virgīniam clientī suō addixit. Tum pater, ubi nihil usquam auxili vīdit, “Quaesō,” inquit, “Appī, ignōsce patriō dolōrī; sine mē filiam ūltimum adloquī.” Datā 20 veniā pater cum filiam sēdūxisset, ab laniō cultrō ad-reptō pectus puellae trānsfigit. Tum vērō sibi viam facit et respersus cruōre ad exercitum profūgit et milites ad vindicandum facinus accendit. Concitātus exercitus mōntem Aventinum insēdit; decem tribūnōs 25 militum creāvit; decem virōs magistrātū sē abdicāre coēgit eōsque omnēs aut morte aut exsiliō multāvit; ipse Appius Claudius in carcerem coniectus mortem sibi cōnscivit.

TRIUMPHAL CHARIOT.

XII. Marcus Furius Camillus.

390 B.C.

Cum Mārcus Fūrius Camillus urbem Falēriōs obsidēret, lūdī magister plūrimōs et nōbilissimōs inde puerōs, velut ambulandī grātiā ēductōs, in castra Rōmānōrum perdūxit. Quibus Camillō trāditis nōn erat dubium quīn Faliscī dēpositō bellō sēsē Rōmānis 5 dēditūrī essent. Sed Camillus perfidiam prōditōris dētestātus, “Nōn ad similem tui,” inquit, “vēnistī:
 sunt et belli sicut pācis iūra; arma habēmus nōn ad-versus eam aetātem cui etiam captīs urbibus parcitur, sed adversus armātōs, quī nec laesi nec lacessitī ā 10 nōbis castra Rōmāna ad Vēiōs oppūgnāvērunt.” Dēnūdārī deinde magistrum iussit, eumque manibus post tergum inligātis in urbem redūcendum pueris trādidit virgāsque eis dedit, quibus prōditōrem agerent in urbem verberantēs. Statim Faliscī, beneficiō magis 15
 quam armīs victi, portās Rōmānis aperuērunt.

Vēientēs etiam illō tempore rebellāvērunt. Quōrum quanta rēs fuerit, indicat decennis obsidiō. Tunc primum hibernācula militibus facta hiemātumque sub pellibus, tum primum stipendium ex aerariō militibus 20
 datum adactusque mīles iūreiūrandō, nisi captā urbe, sē nōn esse discessūrum. Dēnique nōn scālis neque inruptiōne sed cuniculō et subterrāneis dolis perāctum urbis excidium.

Postmodum Camillō est crimini datum, quod albis 25
 equis triumphāset et praedam iniquē dīvisisset; diē dictā ab L. Appulēiō tribūnō plēbis damnātus Ardeam concessit. Urbe ēgrediēns ā diis precātus esse dicitur, ut, sī innoxio sibi ea iniūria fieret, primō quōque tempore dēsiderium suī civitātī ingrātae facerent.

Neque multō post Galli Senonēs Clūsium, Etrūriae
5 oppidum, obsēdērunt. Clūsini novō bellō exterriti ab Rōmānis auxilium petiērunt. Missi sunt Rōmā trēs lēgātī, quī Gallōs monērent ut ab oppugnātiōne dēsisterent. Ex his lēgātis ūnus contrā iūs gentium in aciem prōcessit et ducem Senonum interfēcit. Quā
10 rē commōti Galli, petitis in dēditionem lēgātis neque īmpetrātis, Rōmam petiērunt et exercitum Rōmānum apud Alliam fluvium cecidērunt ante diem quīntum decimum Kalendās Sextilēs: quī diēs intēr nefāstōs relātus Alliēnsis dictus est.

20 Quī eōrum curulēs magistrātūs gesserant, ōrnātī honōrum insignibus in vestibulis aedium eburneis sellis insēdērunt, ut, cum vēnisset hostis, in suā dignitāte morerentur. Interim Galli domōs patentēs ingressi vident praetextātōs senēs, virōs ōrnātū et voltūs māiestāte diis simillimōs.
25 Ad quōs cum Galli veluti ad simulācra conversi stārent, ūnus ex his senibus dicitur Gallō barbam suam permulcentī scipiōnem eburneum in caput incussisse. Irātus Gallus eum occidit; ab eō initium caedis ortum est. Cēterī omnēs in sēdibus 30 suis trucidāti sunt.

Galli deinde impetum facere in arcem statuunt. Primō militem, qui temptāret viam, praemisērunt. Tum nocte sublūstri, sublevantēs invicem et trahentēs alii aliōs, in summum saxum ēvāsērunt tantō silentiō ut nōn custōdēs solum fallerent, sed nē canēs quidem, 5 sollicitum animal ad nocturnōs strepitūs, excitārent. Ānserēs nōn fefellēre, quibus in summā inopiā Rōmāni abstinerant, quia avēs erant Iūnōnis sacrae: quae rēs Rōmānis salūti fuit. Namque clangōre eārum ālārūque crepitū excitus Mānlius, vir bellō ēgregius, cēterōs 10 ad arma vocat et, dum cēterī trepidant, armīs adreptis Gallum qui iam in summō cōnstiterat umbōne ictum dēturbat. Cūius cāsus cum proximōs sterneret, omnēs Galli ascendentēs facile dēiciuntur.

Tunc cōnsēnsū omnium placuit ab exsiliō Camillum 15 accīrī. Missī igitur ad eum lēgātī ipseque dictātor absēns dictus est. Interim famēs utrumque exercitum urgūebat; sed nē Galli putārent Rōmānōs eā necessitāte ad dēditionem cōgī, multis locis dē Capitōliō pānis iactātus est in hostium statīōnēs. Ad postrēmum Galli 20 quoque, obsidiōne fatigātī, pretiō mille pondō auri addūcuntur ut obsidiōnem relinquerent. Cum autem inīqua pondera essent adlāta et Gallōrum dux gladiō per insolentiam additō vae victis increpāret, Camillus dictātor intervēnit, conlētis Rōmāni exercitūs reliquiis; 25 auferri aurum dē mediō iubet dēnūntiatque Gallis ut sē ad proelium expediant. Instruit deinde aciem et Gallōs dēvīcit. Nē nūntius quidem clādis relictus est. Dictātor recuperātā ex hostibus patriā triumphāns urbem ingressus et ā militibus parēs patriae conditorque 30 alter urbis appellātus est. Sed ut oppidum cīvibus, ita cīvēs oppidō reddidit. Agitābant enim tribūni plēbem ut relictis ruinis in urbem parātam Vēiōs trāsmigrārent; quod quidem cōnsilium gravissimā

 5 Camilli ōrātiōne discussum est. Mōvit populum vōcis quoque ōmen ex centuriōne audītae, qui, cum in Forum vēnisset, manipulāribus suis dixerat: “Signifer, statue signum, hīc manēbimus optimē.” Quā vōce audītā et senātus accipere sē ōmen conclāmāvit et plēbs circum-10 fūsa approbāvit.

M. Mānlius, quī Capitōlium ā Gallis dēfenderat, cum obstrictōs aere aliēnō liberāret, nexōs exsolveret, crimine adfectātī rēgnī damnātus dē saxō Tarpēiō dēiectus est.

XIII. Spurius Postumius.

321 B.C.

15 Iam Rōmāni bellum contrā Samnitēs suscepērunt, ā Campānis in auxilium vocātī. Omnium nōn modo Italiae sed tōtō orbe terrārum pulcherrima Campāniae plaga est. Nihil mollius caelō, nihil ūberius solō: bis flōribus vernat. Ideō Liberī Cererisque certāmen di-20 citur. Nihil hospitālius mari. Hīc illi nōbilēs portūs, Cāiēta, Misēnum et tepentēs fontibus Bāiae; hīc Lucrinus et Avernus lacus; hīc amicti vītibus mōntēs Gaurus, Falernus, Massicus, et pulcherrimus omnium Vesuvius, Aetnaei ignis imitātor. Urbēs ad mare For-25 miae, Cūmae, Puteolī, Neāpolis, Herculāneum, Pompeii et ipsa, caput urbium, Capua quondam inter trēs māximās cum Rōmā et Carthāgine numerāta. Prō hāc

urbe, prō hīs regiōnibus populus Rōmānus Samnitēs invāsit. Per quinquāgintā ferē annōs cum Samnitibus pūgnātum saepeque in extrēma pericula ventum est.

Spurius Postumius cōsul cum bellum adversus Samnitēs gereret, ā Gaiō Pontiō, hostium duce, in insidiās inductus est: namque is simulātōs trānsfugās misit, quī Rōmānis dicerent Lūceriam, Āpūliae urbem, ā Samnitibus obsidērī. Nōn erat dubium quīn Rōmānī Lūcerinis, bonis ac fidēlibus sociis, opem ferrent. Duae ad Lūceriam ferēbant viae, altera longior et tūtior, altera brevior et periculōsior; festinātiō breviorē elēgit. Itaque cum in insidiās vēnissent, quī locus Furculae Caudinae vocābātur, et fraus hostilis appāruisset, retrō viam, quā vēnerant, repetunt, at eam quoque hostium praesidiō clausam inveniunt. Sistunt igitur gradum et, omni spē evādendī adēptā, intuentēs aliī aliōs diū immōbilēs silent; deinde ērumpunt in querellās adversus ducēs, quōrum temeritate in eum locum erant adducti, Ita noctem tum cibī tum quiētis immemorēs trādūxērunt.

Nec Samnitēs ipsi, quid sibi faciendum esset in rē tam laetā, sciēbant. Pontius accitum patrem Hērennium rogāvit quid fieri placēret. Is ubi audivit inter duōs saltūs clausum esse exercitum Rōmānum, dixit aut omnēs esse occidendōs, ut virēs frangerentur, aut omnēs dimittendōs esse incolumēs, ut beneficiō obligārentur. Neutra sententia accepta est. Intereā Rōmānī necessitate victi lēgātōs mittunt, quī pācem petant; pāx concessa est eā lēge, ut omnēs sub iugum trādūcerentur. Itaque palūdāmenta cōsulibus dētracta, ipsique primū sub iugum missi, deinde singulae legiōnēs. Circumstābant armāti hostēs exprobrantēs inludentēsque. Rōmānis ē saltū ēgressis lūx ipsa omni morte tristior fuit; ubi Capuam vērunt, pudor fugere conloquia et coetūs hominum cōgēbat. Sērō Rōmam ingressi sē in suās quisque aedēs abdidērunt.

Dēliberante senātū dē pāce Caudinā Postumius sententiam dicere iūssus, “Turpī spōnsiōne,” inquit, “quā mē obstrinxī, nōn tenētur populus Rōmānus, quoniam
10 ēius iniūssū facta est; nec quidquam ex eā praeter corpus meum dēbētur Samnītibus. Eīs dēdite mē nūdum vinctumque; in mē ūnum sāeviant; exsolvam religiōne populum.” Senātus, hanc animi māgnitūdinem admirātus, Posturnium laudāvit ēiusque sententiam 15 secūtus est. Trāditus est igitur Postumius fētiālibus, quī eum ad Samnītēs dūcerent. Vestis ei dētracta, manūs post tergum vinctae sunt, cumque appāritor, verēcundiā māiestātis, Posturnium laxē vinciret, “Quīn tū,” inquit ipse Postumius, “addūcis lōrum, ut iūsta 20 fiat dēditiō?” Tum ubi in coetum Samnītium vēnit, factā dēditiōne, Postumius fētiālis femur genū, quantā potuit vī, perculit et clārā vōce ait sē Samnitem civem esse, illum lēgātum fētiālem ā sē contrā iūs gentium violātum; eō iūstius bellum adversus Samnītēs fore.
25 Accepta nōn est ā Samnītibus illa dēditiō Postumiusque in castra Rōmāna inviolātus rediit.

XIV. Publius Valerius Laevinus et Pyrrhus, rex Epiri.

281 B.C.

Tarentinis, quod Rōmānōrum lēgātis iniūriam fēcissent, bellum indictum est. Hī Pyrrhum, Ēpiri rēgem, contrā Rōmānōs auxilium poposcērunt, quī ex genere Achillis originem trahēbat. Is paulō post in Ītaliā vēnit tumque primum Rōmānī cū trānsmarinō hoste 5 dimicāverunt. Missus est contrā eum cōsul Pūblius Valerius Laevinus, quī cum explorātōrēs Pyrrhī cēpisset, iussit eōs per castra dūci, ostendī omnem exercitum tumque dīmitti, ut renūntiārent Pyrrhō quaecumque ā Rōmānis agerentur. Commissā mox pūgnā cum iam 10 Pyrrhī exercitus pedem referret, rēx elephantōs in Rōmānōrum aciem agī iussit; tumque mūtata est proeli fortūna. Rōmānōs vāstōrum corporum mōlēs terribisque superadstantium armātōrum speciēs turbāvit. Equī etiam, cōspectū et odōre bēluārū exterritī, 15 sessōrēs vel excutiēbant vel sēcum in fugam abripiēbant. Nox proeliō finem dedit.

Pyrrhus captivōs Rōmānōs summō honōre habuit; occisōs sepelivit. Quōs cum adversō volnere et truci voltū etiam mortuōs iacentēs vidisset, tulisse ad caelum 20 manūs dicitur cum hāc vōce: sē tōtius orbis dominum esse potuisse, si tālēs sibi militēs contigissent. Amicis grātulantibus, “Quid mihi cum tālī victōriā,” inquit, “ubi exercitūs rōbur āmittam? Si iterum eōdem modō vicerō, sine ūllō mīlite in Ēpirum revertar.” Deinde 25 ad urbem Rōmam māgnis itineribus contendit; omnia ferrō ignique vāstāvit; ad vicēsimum ab urbe lapidem castra posuit. Pyrrhō obviam vēnit Laevinus cum novō exercitū. Quō visō rēx ait sibi eandem adversus Rōmānōs esse fortūnam quam Herculi adversus hydram, cui tot capita renāscēbantur quot praecisā erant ;

5 deinde in Campāniam sē recēpit. Missōs ā senātū dē redimendis captivis lēgātōs honorificē excēpit ; captivōs sine pretiō reddidit ut Rōmānī, cōgnitā iam virtūte suā, cōgnōscerent etiam liberālitatem.

Erat Pyrrhus mīti āc plācābili animō ; solet enim
10 māgnī animī comes esse clēmētia. Eius hūmānitatem experti sunt Tarentinī. Quī cum sērō intellēxissent sē prō sociō dominum accēpisse, sortem suam miserābantur idque aliquantō liberius ubi vinō incaluerant. Neque deerant quī ad Pyrrhum dēferrent ; arcessitque
15 nōnnūllī, quod inter convivium parum honorificē dē rēge locūtī essent ; sed periculum simplex cōfessio culpae discussit. Nam cum rēx percontātus esset num ea quae pervēnissent ad aurēs suās dixissent “Et haec diximus,” inquiunt, “rēx, et nisi vinum 20 dēfēcisset, multō plūra et graviōra dictūrī fuimus.” Pyrrhus, quī mālēbat vinī quam hominum eam culpam vidērī, subridēns eōs dimisit.

Pyrrhus igitur cum putāret sibi glōriōsum fore pācem et foedus cum Rōmānis post victōriam facere, 25 Rōmam misit lēgātum Cineam, quī pācem aequis condiciōnibus prōpōneret. Erat is rēgī familiāris multumque apud eum grātiā valēbat. Dicere solēbat Pyrrhus sē plūrēs urbēs Cineae ēloquentiā quam vī et armīs expūgnāsse. Cineās tamen rēgis cupiditatem nōn sua aperiret dixissetque sē velle Ītaliā diciōnī suae subicere, Cīneās, “Superātis Rōmānis,” inquit, “quid agere dēstinās, ō rēx?” “Ītaliae vicīna est Sicilia,” inquit Pyrrhus, “nec difficile erit eam armis occupāre.” Tunc Cīneās: “Occupātā Siciliā quid postea āctūrus es?” Rēx, quī nōndum Cīneae mentem perspiciebāt, “In Āfricā,” inquit, “trāicere mihi in animō est.” Cui ille: “Quid deinde, ō rēx?” “Tum dēnique, mī Cīneās,” inquit Pyrrhus, “nōs quiētī dabimus dulcique ōtiō fruēmur.” Tum Cīneās: “At quid impedit quōminus istō ōtiō iam nunc fruāris?”
30 adūlābātur ; nam cum in sermōne Pyrrhus ei cōnsilia

Rōmam cum vēnisset Cīneās, domōs principum cum ingentibus dōnis circumibat. Nusquam vērō receptus est. Nōn ā viris solum sed etiam ā mulieribus sprēta eius mūnera. Intrōductus deinde in cūriam cum rēgis virtutem prōpēsumque in Rōmānōs animum verbis extolleret et dē condiōnum aequitāte dissereret et sententia senātūs ad pācem et foedus faciendum inclināre vidērētur, tum Appius Claudius, ob senectutem et caecitatem abstinēre cūriā ōlim solitus, cōnfestim in senātum lecticā dēferri sē iussit ibique gravissimā ōrātiōne pācem dissuāsīt, itaque respōsum Pyrrhō ā senātū est eum, dōnec Ītaliā excessisset, pācem cum Rōmānis habēre nōn posse. Praeterea Rōmāni captīvōs omnēs quōs Pyrrhus reddiderat, infāmēs habēri iussērunt, quod armātī capī potuissent, neque ante eōs ad veterem statum revertī quam si binūm hostium occisōrum spolia rettulissent. Ita lēgātus ad rēgem revertit: ā quō cum Pyrrhus quaereret quālem Rōmam comperisset, Cīneās respondit urbem sibi templum, senātum vērō cōnsessum rēgum esse visum.

XV. Gaius Fabricius.

278 B.C.

A1

- Ex lēgātis quī ād Pyrrhum dē captivis redimendis vēnerant, fuit C. Fabricius. Cūius postquam āudivit Pyrrhus māgnū esse apud Rōmānōs nōmen, ut viri boni et bellō ēgregiī, sed admodum pauperis, eum prae 5 cēteris honōrificē āc liberāliter habuit eīque mūnera atque aurum obtulit, quae omnia repudiāvit Fabricius.
Posterō diē cum illum Pyrrhus vellet exterrēre cōnspectū subitō elephantī, imperāvit suis ut, Fabriciō sēcum conloquente, bēlua post aulaeum admovērētur.
10 Quod ubi factum est, signō datō remōtōque aulaeō, repente bēlua stridōrem horrendum ēmisit et probos-cidem super Fabrici caput dēmisit. Sed ille subri-dēns: “Neque heri mē aurum tuum pellēxit, neque hodiē perterrefēcit bēlua.”
15 Fabrici admirātus virtūtem Pyrrhus illum sēcūtō invitāvit ut patriam dēsereret sēcumque vellet vivere, quartā etiam rēgni suī parte oblātā; cui Fabricius ita respondit: “Sī mē virum bonum iūdicās, cūr mē vis corrumpere? sīn vērō malum, cūr mē ambis?” Annō 20 interiectō, omni spē pācis inter Pyrrhum et Rōmānōs conciliandae ablātā, Fabricius cōnsul factus contrā eum missus est. Cumque vicīna castra ipse et rēx habērent, medicus rēgis nocte ad Fabricium vēnit eīque pollicitus est, sī praemium sibi prōposuisset, sē 25 Pyrrhum venēnō necātūrum. Hunc Fabricius vinctum redūci iussit ad dominum et Pyrrhō dici quae contrā caput ēius medicus spopondisset. Tunc rēx admirātus

eum dixisse fertur : “Ille est Fabricius, quī difficilior ab honestāte quam sōl ā suō cursū potest āvertī.”

Fabricius cum apud Pyrrhum rēgem lēgātus esset, Cineam audivit nārrantem esse quendam Athēnis quī sē sapientem profitērētur, eumque dicere omnia quae facerēmus ad voluptātem esse referenda. Tunc Fabricium exclāmāsse ferunt : “Utinam id hostibus nostris persuādeātur, quō facilius vinci possint cum sē voluptātibus dederint!” Nihil magis ab eius vitā aliēnum erat quam voluptās et lūxus. Tōta eius suppellex argentea salinō ūnō cōnstābat et patellā ad ūsum sacrōrum, quae corneō pediculō sustinēbātur. Cēnābat ad focum rādicēs et herbās, cum lēgātī Samnitium ad eum vērērent māgnamque ei pecūniam obtulerunt ; quibus sic respondit : “Quam diū cupiditatibus imperāre poterō, nihil mihi deerit ; vōs autem pecūniam ad eōs quī hāc indigent reportāte.”

Gāius Fabricius cum Rūfinō, virō nōbili, simultātem gerēbat ob mōrum dissimilitūdinem, cum ipse pecūniae contemptor esset, hīc avārus et fūrāx existimārētur. Quia tamen Rūfinus industrius ac bonus imperātor erat, māgnūque et grave bellum imminēre vidēbātur, Fabricius auctor fuit ut Rūfinus cōsul creārētur, cumque is deinde Fabriciō grātiās ageret, quod sē homō inimicus cōsulem fēcisset, hīc respondit nō esse mirandum si compilārī quam vērēre māluisset. Eundem postea Fabricius cēnsor factus senātū mōvit, quod argentī facti decem pondō habēret. Fabricius omnem vitā in glōriōsā paupertāte exēgit adeoque inops dēcessit ut, unde dōs filiārum expedirētur, nō

Pyrrhus cum adversus Rōmānōs parum prōfectūrum sē intellexeret, Siciliam diciōnis suae facere statuit.
 5 Inde rediēns cum Locrōs classe praeterveherētur, thē-saurōs fānī Prōserpinae intāctōs ad eam diem spoliāvit ; atque ita, pecūniā in nāvēs impositā, ipse terrā est profectus. Quid ergō ēvēnit? Classis posterō diē foedissimā tempestāte lacerāta omnēsque nāvēs quae
 10 sacram pecūniam habēbant in litora Locrōrum ēiectae sunt. Quā tantā clāde ēdoctus tandem deōs esse, superbissimus rēx pecūniam omnem conquisitam in fānum Prōserpinae referri iussit. Nec tamen illi umquam prōsperī quidquam ēvēnit, pulsusque Italiā 15 ignōbili morte occubuit, cum temerē noctū ingressus esset Argos.

XVI. Gaius Duilius.

260 B.C.

Gāius Duilius Poenōs nāvālī proeliō primus dēvicit. Quī cum vidēret nāvēs Rōmānās ā Pūnicis vēlōcitātē superārī, manūs ferreās sive corvōs, māchinam ad com-20 prehendendās hostium nāvēs tenendāsque ūtilem, ex-cōgitāvit. Quae manūs ubi hostilem apprehenderant nāvem, superiectō ponte trānsgridiēbātur Rōmānus et in ipsōrum ratibus comminus dīmīcābant, unde Rōmānis, quī rōbore praestābant, facilis victōria fuit.
 25 Celeriter sunt expūgnātae nāvēs Pūnicae trigintā, in quibus etiam praetōria septirēmī capta est, mersae tredecim.

Duilius victor, Rōmam reversus, primus nāvalem triumphum ēgit. Nulla victōria Rōmānis grātor fuit, quod invicti terrā iam etiam marī plūrimum possent. Itaque Duiliō concessum est ut per omnem vitam prae-lūcente fūnālī et praecinente tibicine ā cēnā rediret. 5

Hannibal, dux classis Pūnicae, ē nāvi quae iam capiēbātur, in scapham saltū sē dēmittēns Rōmānōrum manūs effūgit. Veritus autem nē in patriā classis āmissae poenās daret, civium odium astūtiā āvertit; nam ex illā infēlici pūgnā, priusquam clādis nūntius 10 domum perveniret, quendam ex amicis Carthāginem misit. Quī postquam cūriam intrāvit, “Cōnsulit,” inquit, “vōs Hannibal, cum dux Rōmānōrum māgnis cōpiis maritimis instrūctis advēnerit, num cum eō cōnfligere dēbeat.” Acclāmāvit ūniversus senātus 15 nōn esse dubium quīn cōnfigī oportēret. Tum ille “Cōnflixit,” inquit, “et superātus est.” Ita nōn potuerunt factum damnāre quod ipsī fieri dēbuisse iūdicāverant. Sic Hannibal victus crucis supplicium effūgit; nam eō poenae genere dux, rē male gestā, 20 apud Poenōs adficiēbātur.

XVII. Gaius Lutatius Catulus.

241 B.C.

Gāius Lutātius Catulus cōnsul finem primō Pūnicō bellō imposuit. Cum classe trecentārum nāvium in Siciliam trānsvectus, dum Drepanum oppūgnat et inter primōs strēnuē dimicat, grave volnus in femore accēpit. 25 Nōndum convaluerat, cum māxima Poenōrum classis adesse nūtiātur. Nāvēs erant quadringentae commeātū onustae, quem ad exercitum portābant, cōpiis praetereā militum permāgnis armōrumque et pecūniae amplissimō numerō. Summae rerum Hannō praeerat, 5 nōbilis Poenus. Hic māgnō studiō id agēbat, ut nāvēs onere levāret et strēnuis viris ab Hamilcare acceptis compleret atque sic deinde cum Rōmānā classe cōn-fligeret. At Lutātius, ut cōnsilia Poenōrum praeveniret et potius cum classe gravī suisque oneribus impeditā 10 cōnfligeret, statim ad Aegātēs insulās cursum intendit hostiumque classem aggreditur. Nec longa fuit vic-tōriae mora, nam brevissimō tempore omnēs Carthāginiēnsium nāvēs aut captae aut dēpressae sunt. Ingēns fuit praeda. Poenī victi pācem postulārunt; quae eis 15 hāc condiciōne concessa est, ut omnibus insulis quae sunt inter Ītaliā et Āfricā dēcēderent et certum populō Rōmānō vectigal per viginti annōs penderent.

XVIII. Quintus Fabius Maximus.

218–203 B.C.

Hannibal, Hamilcaris filius, novem annōs nātus, ā patre āris admōtus odium in Rōmānōs perenne iūrāvit.
 20 Quae rēs māximē vidētur concitāsse secundum Pūnicum bellum. Nam mortuō Hamilcare Hannibal, cau-sam belli quaerēns, Saguntum, civitātem Hispāniae Rōmānis foederatā, ēvertit. Quāpropter Rōmā missi sunt Carthāginem lēgātī, quī Hannibalem, malī auctō-25 rem, exposcerent. Tergiversantibus Poenīs Quintus Fabius, lēgatiōnis princeps, sinū ex togā factō, “Hic,” inquit, “vōbīs bellum et pācem portāmus; utrum placeat, sūmite.” Poenīs “Bellum” succlāmantibus, Fabius excussā togā bellum sē dare dicit. Poenī accipere sē respondērunt et, quibus acciperent animīs, eisdem sē gestūrōs.

Hannibal superātis Pŷrēnaei et Alpium iugīs in Ītaliā vēnit. Pūblium Scīpiōnem apud Ticinum amnem, Semprōnium apud Trebiam, Flāminium apud Trasmēnum prōfligāvit.

Adversus hostem totiēns victōrem missus Quintus 10 Fabius dictātor Hannibalis impetum morā frēgit; namque priōrum ducum clādibus ēdoctus, bellī ratiōnem mūtāre et adversus Hannibalem, succēssibus proeliōrum insolentem, recēdere ab ancipiti discriminē et tuērī tantum modo Ītaliā cōstituit, Cunctātōrisque 15 nōmen et laudem summī ducis meruit. Per loca alta āgmen dūcēbat modicō ab hoste intervāllō, ut neque omitteret eum neque cum eō congredērētur; castrīs, nisi quantum necessitās cōgeret, milēs tenēbātur. Dux neque oçcāsioni rei bene gerendae deerat, si qua ab 20 hoste darētur, neque ūllam ipse hosti dabat. Itaque cum ex levibus proeliis superior discēderet, militem minus iam coepit aut virtūtis suae aut fortūnae paenitēre.

His artibus cum Hannibalem Fabius in agrō Falernō 25 locōrum angustis clausisset, ille sine ūllō exercitūs dētrimentō sē expedit. Namque ārida sarmenta in boum cornibus dēligāta principiō noctis incendi bovēsque ad mōntēs, quōs Rōmānī insēderant, agī iussit. Quī cum accēnsis cornibus per mōntēs, per silvās hūc 30 illūc discurrerent, Rōmānī mirāculō attonitī cōstitērunt; ipse Fabius insidiās esse ratus militem extrā vāllum ēgredi vetuit. Intereā Hannibal ex angustīis ēvāsīt.

5 Dein Hannibal, ut Fabiō apud suōs cōflāret invidiam, agrum ēius, omnibus circā vāstātis, intāctum reliquit. At Fabius missō Rōmam Quintō filiō inviolātum ab hoste agrum vēndidit ēiusque pretiō captivōs Rōmānōs redēmit.

10 Haud grāta tamen Rōmānis erat Fabī cunctātiō :
eumque prō cautō timidum, prō cunctātōre sēgnem vocatābant. Augēbat invidiam Minucius, magister equitum, dictātōrem criminandō ; illum in dūcendō bellō sēdulō tempus terere, quō diūtius in magistrātū 15 esset sōlusque et Rōmae et in exercitū imperium habē-ret. His sermōnibus accēnsa plēbs dictātōrī magi-strum equitum imperiō aequāvit. Hanc iniūriam aequō animō tulit Fabius exercitumque suum cum Minuciō dīvisit. Cum autem Minucius temerē proelium com-20 misisset, eī perīclitanti auxiliō vēnit Fabius. Cūius subitō adventū repressus Hannibal receptui cecinit, palam cōfessus ab sē Minucium, sē ā Fabiō victum esse. Redeuntem ex aciē dixisse eum ferunt tandem eam nūbem quae sedēre in iugīs mōntium solita esset, 25 cum procellā imbrem dedisse. Minucius autem perīculō liberātus castra cum Fabiō iūnxit et patrem eum appellāvit idemque facere militēs iussit.

Posteā Hannibal Tarentō per prōditiōnem potitus
est. Hanc urbem ut Poenis trāderent, tredecim ferē 30 nōbilēs iuvenēs Tarentīni coniūrāverant. Hī nocte per speciem v̄nandī urbe ēgressī ad Hannibalem, quī haud procul castra habēbat, v̄nērunt. Cui cum, quid parārent, exposuissent, conlaudāvit eōs Hannibal monuitque ut redeuntēs pecora Carthāginiēnsium quae pāstum prōpulsa essent ad urbem agerent, et veluti praedam 5 ex hoste factam aut praefectō aut custōdibus portārum dōnārent. Id iterum ac saepius ab eis factum eōque cōnsuetūdinis adducta rēs est ut, quōcumque noctis tempore sibilō dedissent signum, porta urbis aperirētur.

 Tunc Hannibal eōs nocte mediā cum decem milibus 10 hominum dēlectōrum secūtus est. Ubi portae appropinquārunt, nōta iuvenum vōx et familiāre signum vigilem excitāvit. Duo primī inferēbant aprum vāsti corporis. Vigil incautus, dum bēluae māgnitudinem mirātur, v̄nābulō occisus est. Ingressī prōditōrēs cē- 15 terōs vigilēs sōpitōs obtruncant. Tum Hannibal cum suō āgmine ingreditur; Rōmānī passim trucidantur.
 Livius Salinātor, Rōmānōrum praefectus, cum eis quī caedi superfuērunt, in arcem cōnfūgit.

Profectus igitur Fabius ad recipiendum Tarentum 20 urbem obsidiōne cinxit. Leve dictū mōmentum ad rem ingentem perficiendam eum adiūvit. Praefectus praesidi Tarentinī dēperibat amōre mulierculae, cūius frāter in exercitū Fabi erat. Miles iūssus ā Fabiō prō perfugā Tarentum trānsiit ac per sorōrem praefectum 25 ad trādendam urbem perpulit. Fabius vigiliā primā accessit ad eam partem mūrī quam praefectus custōdiēbat. Adiuvantibus recipientibusque eius militibus Rōmānī in urbem trāscendērunt. Inde, proximā portā refrāctā, Fabius cum exercitū intrāvit. Hannibal 30

nūtiātā Tarenti oppugnātiōne cum ad opem ferendam festināns captam urbem esse audivisset, “Et Rōmāni,” inquit, “suum Hannibalem habent; eādem quā cēperāmus arte Tarentum āmisimus.”

5 Cum posteā Livius Salinātor cōram Fabiō glōriārētur, quod arcem Tarentinam reținuisset, dixissetque eum suā operā Tarentum recēpisse, “Certē,” inquit Fabius ridēns, “nam nisi tū āmisissēs, ego nunquam recēpissem.”

10 Quintus Fabius iam senex filiō suō cōsulī lēgātus fuit; cumque in ēius castra veniret, filius obviam patrī prōgressus est, duodecim lictōribus prō mōre antecēdentibus. Equō vehēbātur senex neque appropinquante cōsule dēscendit. Iam ex lictōribus ūndecim
20 cōsulem tē esse.” Ad summam senectūtem vixit Fabius Māximus, dignus tantō cōgnōmine. Cautior quam prōptior habitus est, sed insita ēius ingeniō prūdentia ei bellō quod tum gerēbātur propriē apta erat. Nēmini dubium est quā rem Rōmānam cunc-
25 tandō restituerit. Ut Scipiō pugnandō, ita hic nōn dimicandō māximē civitāti Rōmānae succurrisse visus est. Alter enim celeritāte suā Carthāginem oppressit, alter cunctātiōne id ēgit, nē Rōma opprimi posset.

XIX. Aemilius Paulus et Terentius Varro.

216 B.C.

Hannibal in Āpūliam pervēnerat. Adversus eum Rōmā profecti sunt duo cōsulēs, Aemilius Paulus et Terentius Varrō. Paulō Fabi cunctātiō magis placēbat; Varrō autem, ferōx et temerārius, ācriōra sequēbātur cōnsilia. Ambō cōsulēs ad vicum qui Cannae 5 appellābātur castra commūniverunt. Ibi deinde Varrō, invitō conlēgā, aciem instrūxit et signum pūgnae dedit. Hannibal autem ita cōstituerat aciem ut Rōmānis et sōlis radii et ventus ab oriente pulverem adflāns adversi essent. Victus caesusque est Rōmānus exercitus; 10 nusquam graviōre volnere adflīcta est rēs pūblica. Aemilius Paulus tēlis obrutus cecidit; quem cum mediā in pūgnā sedentem in saxō opplētum cruōre cōspēxisset quidam tribūnus militum, “Cape,” inquit, “hunc equum et fuge, Aemili. Etiam sine tuā morte 15 lacrimārum satis lūctūsque est.” Ad ea cōsul: “Tū quidem macte virtūte estō! Sed cavē exiguum tempus ē manibus hostium ēvādendi perdās! Abi, nūntiā patribus ut urbem mūniant āc, priusquam hostis victor adveniat, praesidiis firment. Mē in hāc strāge meō- 20 rum militum patere exspirāre.” Alter cōsul cum paucis equitibus Venusiam perfūgit. Cōsulārēs aut praetōrii occidērunt viginti, senātōrēs capti aut occisi trigintā, nōbilēs viri trecenti, militum quadrāgintā milia, equitum tria milia et quingenti. Hannibal in testimō- 25 nium victōriae suae trēs modiōs aureōrum ānulōrum Carthāginem misit, quōs dē manibus equitum Rōmānōrum et senātōrum dētrāxerat.

Hannibali victōri cum cēteri grātulārentur suādērentque ut quiētem iam ipse sūmeret et fessis militibus daret, ūnus ex ēius praefectis, Maharbal, minimē cessandum ratus, Hannibalem hortābātur ut statim
5 Rōmam pergeret. “Diē quīntō,” inquit, “victor in Capitōliō epulāberis.” Cumque Hannibal illud nōn probāset, Maharbal, “Nōn omnia nīmīrum,” inquit, “eidem dii dedēre. Vincere scīs, Hannibal; victōriā ūti nēscīs.” Mora hūius diēi satis crēditur salūti fuisse 10 urbī et imperiō. Hannibal cum victōriā posset ūti, fruī māluit, relictāque Rōmā in Campāniam dēvertit, cūius dēliciis mox exercitūs ārdor ēlanguit; adeō ut vēre dictum sit Capuam Hannibali Cannās fuisse.

Numquam tantum pavōris Rōmae fuit quantum ubi
15 acceptae clādis nūntius advēnit. Neque tamen ūlla pācis mentiō facta est; quī etiam animō civitās adeō māgnō fuit ut Varrōni ex tantā clāde redeuntī obviam irent et grātiās agerent, quod dē rē publicā nōn dēspērāset; quī, si Poenōrum dux fuisset, temeritātis
20 poenās omni suppliciō dedisset. Nōn autem vitāe cupiditāte, sed rei publicae amōre sē superfuisse, reliquō aetātis suae tempore approbāvit. Nam et barbam capillumque submisit, et postea numquam recubāns cibum cēpit. Honōribus quoque, cum ei dēferrentur
25 ā populō, renūntiāvit dicēns feliciōribus magistrātibus rei publicae opus esse. Dum igitur Hannibal sēgniter et ōtiōsē agēbat, Rōmāni interim respirāre coepērunt. Arma nōn erant; dētracta sunt templis vetera hostium spolia. Deerat iuventūs; servi manūmissi et armāti 30 sunt. Egēbat aerārium; opēs suās libēns senātus in medium prōtulit, nec praeter quod in bullis singulisque ānulis erat, quidquam sibi aurī reliquērunt. Patrum exemplum secūti sunt equitēs imitātaeque equitēs om nēs tribūs. Dēnique vix suffēcēre tabulae, vix scri bārum manūs, cum omnēs privātae opēs in pūblicum 5 dēferrentur.

Cum Hannibal redimendī suī cōpiam captivīs Rō mānis fēcisset, decem ex ipsis Rōmam eā dē rē missi sunt; nec pignus aliud fidei ab eis postulātum est quam ut iūrārent sē, sī nōn impetrāssent, in castra 10 esse reditūrōs. Eōs senātus nōn redimendōs cēnsuit responditque, eōs civēs nōn esse necessariōs, quī, cum armāti essent, capī potuissent. Ūnus ex eis lēgātis ē castris Poenōrum ēgressus, veluti aliquid oblitus, paulō post in castra erat regressus, deinde comitēs ante 15 noctem adsecūtus erat. Is ergō, rē nōn impetrātā, domum abiit. Reditū enim in castra sē liberātum esse iūreiūrandō interpretābātur. Quod ubi innōtuit, iussit senātus illum comprehendī et vinctum dūci ad Hannibalem. Ea rēs Hannibalis audāciam māximē 20 frēgit, quod senātus populusque Rōmānus rēbus ad flictis tam excelsō esset animō.

XX. Tiberius Gracchus et Gaius Gracchus.

170-121 B.C.

Tiberius et Gāius Gracchī Scipionis Africānī ex filiā nepōtēs erant. Hōrum adulēscentia bonis artibus et māgnā omnium spē exācta est: ad ēgregiam enim in- 25
 dolem optima accēdēbat educātiō. Erant enim diligen-tiā Cornēliae māt̄ris ā pueris doctī et Graecis litteris ēruditī. Māximum māt̄rōnis ōrnāmentum esse liberōs bene institūtōs meritō putābat māt̄er illa sapientissima. Cum Campāna māt̄rōna, apud illam hospita, ōrnāmenta 5 sua, illō saeculō pulcherrima, ostentāret ei muliebriter, Cornēlia trāxit eam sermōne quousque ē scholā redirent liberī. Quōs reversōs hospitae ostendēns, “Haec,” inquit, “mea ōrnāmenta sunt.” Nihil quidem his adulēscentibus neque ā nātūrā neque ā doctrinā dēfuit;

10 sed ambō rem pūblicam, quam tuērī poterant, perturbāre māluērunt.

Tiberius Gracchus, tribūnus plēbis creātus, ā senātū dēscivit: populi favōrem profūsis largitiōnibus sibi conciliāvit; agrōs plēbī dividēbat; prōvinciās novis
15 colōniis replēbat. Cum autem tribūniciam potestātem sibi prōrogārī vellet et palam dictitāset interēptō senātū omnia per plēbem agī dēbere, viam sibi ad rēgnum parāre vidēbātur. Quā rē cum convocāti patrēs dēliberārent quidnam faciendum esset, statim 20 Tiberius Capitōlium petit, manum ad caput referēns, quō signō salūtem suam populō commendābat. Hōc nōbilitās ita accēpit quasi diadēma posceret, sēgniterque cessante cōsule, Scipiō Nāsica, cum esset cōn-
sōbrinus Tiberī Gracchī, patriam cōgnātiōni praeferēns
25 sublātā dextrā prōclāmāvit: “Quī rem pūblicam salvam esse volunt, mē sequantur!” Dein optimātēs, senātus atque equestris ōrdinis pars māior in Gracchum inruunt, quī fugiēns dēcurrēnsque clivō Capitōlinō frāgmentō subselli ictus, vitam quam glōriōsissimē dēgere potue-30 rat, immātūrā morte finivit. Mortuī Tiberī corpus in flūmen prōiectum est.

Gāium Gracchum idem furor quī frātre Tiberium occupāvit. Tribūnātum enim adeptus, seu vindicandae frāternae necis, seu comparandae rēgiae potentiae causā, pessima coepit inire cōsilia : māximās largitiōnēs fēcit ; aerārium effūdīt ; lēgem dē frūmentō plēbī 5 dividendō tulit ; civitātem omnibus Ītalicis dabat. His Gracchī cōsiliis quantā poterant contentiōne obsistē-bant omnēs bonī, in quibus māximē Pisō, vir cōsulā-ris. Is cum multa contrā lēgem frūmentāriam dixisset, lēge tamen lātā ad frūmentum cum cēteris accipien- 10
 dum vēnit. Gracchus ubi animadvertit in cōntiōne Pisōnem stantem, eum sic compellāvit audiente populō Rōmānō : “Quī tibi cōnstās, Pisō, cum eā lēge frūmentum petās quam dissuāsisti?” Cui Pisō : “Nōlim quidem, Gracche,” inquit, “mea bona tibi viritum dividere 15 liceat ; sed sī faciēs, partem petam.” Quō respōnsō apertē dēclārāvit vir gravis et sapiēns, lēge quam tule-rat Gracchus, patrimonium pūblicum dissipārī.

Dēcrētum ā senātū est, ut vidēret cōsul Opīmius nē quid dētrimenti rēs pūblica caperet : quod nisi in 20 māximō discrimine dēcernī nōn solēbat. Gāius Gracchus, armātā familiā, Aventinum occupāvit. Cōsul, vocātō ad arma populō, Gāium aggressus est, quī pulsus profūgit et, cum iam comprehenderētur, iugulum servō prae-buit, quī dominum et mox sēmet ipsum super 25 dominī corpus interēmit. Ut Tiberī Gracchī antea corpus, ita Gāi, mirā crūdēlitāte victōrum, in Tiberim dēiectum est ; caput autem ā Septimulēiō, amicō Grac-chī, ad Opīmium relātum aurō repēnsū fertur. Sunt quī trādant infūsō plumbō eum partem capitis, quō 30 gravius efficerētur, explēsse.

Occisō Tiberiō Gracchō, cum senātus cōsulibus mandāset ut in eōs quī cum Gracchō cōnsēserant animadverterētur, Blossius quīdam, Tiberi amicus, prō sē dēprecātum vēnit, hanc, ut sibi ignōscerētur, causam
5 adferēns, quod tantī Gracchum fēcisset ut, quidquid ille vellet, sibi faciendum putāret. Tum cōsul, "Quid?" inquit, "sī tē Gracchus templō Iovis in Capitoliō facēs subdere iussisset, obsecūtūrusne voluntāti illius fuisti propter istam quam iactās familiāritātem?" "Num-
10 quam," inquit Blossius, "voluisset id quidem, sed sī voluisset, pāruiissem." Nefāria est ea vōx: nūlla enim est excūsatiō peccāti, sī amici causā peccāveris.

Exstat Gai Gracchi ē Sardinia Rōmam reversi ōratiō, in quā cum alia tum haec dē sē nārrat. "Versātus

XXI. Gnaeus Pompeius Magnus.

106-48 B.C.

Gnaeus Pompēius, stirpis senātōriae, bellō civili sē et patrem cōsiliō servāvit. Cum enim Pompēi pater 25 exercitui suō ob avāritiam esset invisus, factā in eum coniūratiōne Terentius quīdam, Gnaei Pompēi fili

contubernālis, hunc occidendum suscepit dum alii tabernāculum patris incenderent. Quae res cum iuveni Pompēiō cenantī nūntiāta esset, nihil periculō mōtus, solitō hilarius bibit et cum Terentiō eādem quā antea cōmitāte ūsus est. Deinde cubiculum ingressus clam subdūxit sē tentōriō et firmam patri circumdedit custōdiam. Terentius tum dēstrictō ēnse ad lectum Pompēi accessit multisque ictibus strāgula percussit. Ortā mox sēditione Pompēius sē in media coniēcit āgmina, militēsque tumultuantēs p̄cibus et lacrimis plācavit ac duci reconciliāvit. 10

Eōdem bellō Pompēius partēs Sullae secūsus ita sē gessit ut ab eō m̄ximē diligeretur. Annōs trēs et vīginti nātus, ut Sullae auxiliō veniret, paterni exercitūs reliquiās conlēgit, statimque dux peritus exstitit. Māgnus illius apud militem amor, māgna apud omnēs admirātiō fuit; nūllus ei labor taediō, nūlla dēfatigātiō molestiae erat. Cibi vinique temperāns, somni parcus; inter militēs corpus exercēns cum alacribus saltū, cum v̄lōcibus cursū, cum validis lūctandō certābat. Tum ad Sullam iter intendit et in eō itinere trēs hostium exercitūs aut fūdīt aut sibi adiūnxit. Quem ubi Sulla ad sē accēdere audivit ēgregiamque sub signis iuventūtem aspēxit, dēsiliit ex equō Pompēiumque salūtāvit imperātōrem et posteā ei venienti solēbat sellā adsurgere et caput aperire et equō dēscendere, quem honōrem nēmini nisi Pompēiō tribuēbat. 20

Posteā Pompēius in Siciliam profectus est, ut eam ā Carbōne, Sullae inimicō, occupātam reciperet. Carbō comprehēsus et ad Pompēium ductus est: quem Pom- 30

pēius, etsi Carbō muliebriter mortem extimēscēns dēmissē et flēbiliter mortem dēprecābātur, ad supplicium dūci iussit. Longē moderātor fuit Pompēius ergā Sthenium, Siciliae cūiusdam civitātis principem. Cum 5 enim in eam civitātem animadvertere dēcrēvisset, quae sibi adversāta fuisset, iniquē eum factūrum Sthenius exclāmāvit, sī ob ūnius culpam omnēs pūnīret. Interrogantī Pompēiō quisnam ille ūnus esset, “Ego,” inquit Sthenius, “quī civēs meōs ad id indūxi.” Tam
10 liberā vōce dēlectātus Pompēius omnibus et Stheniō ipsi pepercit.

Trāsgressus inde in Āfricam Iarbam, Numidiaē rēgem, quī Mari partibus favēbat, bellō persecūtus intrā diēs quadrāgintā oppressit et Āfricam subēgit
15 adulēscēns quattuor et viginti annōrum. Deinde cū litterae ei ā Sullā redditae essent, quibus exercitū dimissō cum ūnā legiōne successorē exspectāre iubēbātur, Pompēius, quamquam aegrē id ferēbat, tamen pārui et Rōmam revertit. Revertenti incrēdibilis 20 hominū multitudō obviam ivit; Sulla quoque laetus eum excēpit et Māgnī cōgnōmine cōnsalūtāvit. Nihilō minus Pompēiō triumphum petentī restitit; neque vērō eā rē ā prōpositō dēterritus est Pompēius aususque dicere plūrēs adōrāre sōlem orientem quam occiden-
25 tem; quō dictō innuēbat Sullae potentiam minui, suam crēscere. Eā vōce auditā Sulla, cōfidentiā adulēscēntis percussus: “Triumphet! triumphet!” exclāmāvit.

Metellō iam senī et bellum in Hispāniā sēgnius gerentī conlēga datus Pompēius adversus Sertōrium variō 30 ēventū dimicāvit. Māximum ibi in proeliō quōdam

periculum subiit; cum enim vir vāstā corporis māgnitūdine impetum in eum fēcisset, Pompēius manum amputāvit; sed multis in eum concurrentibus volnus in femore accēpit et ā suis fugientibus dēsertus in hostium potestāte erat. At praeter spem ēvāsit; barbarī enim 5 equum ēius aurō phalerisque eximiīs instrūctum cēperant. Dum igitur praedam inter sē altercantēs partiuntur, Pompēius eōrum manūs effūgit. Alterō proeliō cum Metellus Pompēiō labōranti auxiliō vēnisset, Sertōrius recēdere coactus dixisse fertur. “Nisi anus illa 10 supervēnisset, ego hunc puerum verberibus castigātum Rōmam dimīsissem.” Metellum anum appellābat, quia is, iam senex, ad mollem et effēmīnatam vitam dēflēxerat. Sertōriō interfectō Pompēius Hispāniam recēpit.

Cum pirātae illā tempestāte maria omnia infestārent 15 et quāsdam etiam Ītalīae urbēs diripuissent, ad eōs opprimendōs cum imperiō extraōrdināriō missus est Pompēius. Nimiae virī potentiae obsistēbant quīdam ex optimātibus et imprimis Quīntus Catulus. Quī cum in cōntiōne dixisset esse quidem praeclārū virum 20 Cn. Pompēium, sed nōn esse ūnī omnia tribuenda, adiēgissetque, “Sī quid huic acciderit, quem in ēius locum substituētis?” summō cōnsēnsū succlāmāvit ūniversa cōntiō: “Tē, Quīnte Catule.” Tam honōrificō cīvium testimōniō victus Catulus ē cōntiōne dis- 25 cessit. Pompēius, dispositis per omnēs maris recessūs nāvibus, brevī terrārum orbem illā peste liberāvit; praedōnēs multis locis victōs fūdit; eōsdem in dēditionem acceptōs in urbibus et agrīs procul ā mari conlocāvit. Nihil hāc victōriā celerius; nam intrā 30 quadrāgēsimum diem pirātās tōtō mari expulit.

5 interdiū castrīs sē continēbat, noctū vērō haud tūtum erat congredi cum hoste in locis ignōtis. Nocte tamen aliquandō cum Pompēius Mithridātem aggressus esset, lūna māgnō fuit Rōmānis adiūmentō. Quam cum Rōmānī ā tergō habērent, umbrae corporum longius prō-
10 iectae ad primōs usque hostium ōrdinēs pertinēbant; unde dēcepti rēgii milītēs in umbrās, tamquam in propinquum hostem, tēla mittēbant. Victus Mithridātēs in Pontum profūgit. Pharnacēs filius bellum eī intulit, quī, occisis ā patre frātribus, vitae suae ipse 15 timēbat. Mithridātēs ā filiō obsessus venēnum sūmpsit; quod cum tardius subiret, quia adversus venēna multis antea medicāmentis corpus firmāverat, ā milite Gallō, ā quō ut adiuvāret sē petierat, interfectus est.

Tigrānī deinde, Armeniae rēgī, quī Mithridātis partēs
20 secūtus erat, Pompēius bellum intulit eumque ad dēditionem compulit. Quī cum prōcubisset ad genua Pompēi, eum ērēxit, et benignis verbis recreātum, diadēma, quod abiēcerat, capiti repōnere iussit, aequē pulchrum esse iūdicāns et vincere rēgēs et facere.
25 Inde in Iūdaeam profectus Rōmānōrum primus Iūdaeōs domuit, Hierosolyma, caput gentis, cēpit, templumque iūre victōriae ingressus est. Rēbus Asiae compositis in Italiam versus ad urbem vēnit, nōn, ut plērique timuerant, armātus, sed dīmissō exercitū, et novis inūsitatīisq̄ue ōrnāmentis hīc triūmphus; sed nihil inlūstrius vīsum quam quod tribus triūmphis trēs orbis partēs dēvictae causam praebuerant; Pompēius enim, quod antea contigerat nēminī, prīmum ex Āfricā, iterum ex Eurōpā, tertiō ex Asiā triūmphāvit, fēlix 5 opiniōne hominum futūrus, sī, quem glōriae, eundem vitae finem habuisset neque adversam fōrtūnam esset expertus iam senex.

Posteriōre enim tempore ortā inter Pompēium et Caesarem gravī dissēsiōne, quod hīc superiōrem, ille 10 parem ferre nōn posset, bellum civile exārsit. Caesar infestō exercitū in Ītaliā vēnit. Pompēius, relictā urbe ac deinde Ītaliā ipsā, Thessaliā petit et cum eō cōsulēs senātusque omnis; quem insecūtus Caesar apud Pharsālum aciē fūdit. Victus Pompēius ad 15 Ptolemaeum, Aegypti rēgem, cui tūtor ā senātū datus erat, profūgit, quī Pompēium interfici iussit. Latus Pompēi sub oculis uxōris et liberōrum mucrone cōnfossum est, caput praecisum, truncus in Nilum coniectus. Deinde caput cum anulō ad Caesarem dēlā- 20 tum est, quī eō visō lacrimās nōn continēns illud multis pretiōsissimisq̄ue odōribus cremandum cūrāvit.

Is fuit Pompēi post trēs cōsulātūs et totidem triūmphōs vitae exitus. Erant in Pompēiō multae et māgnae virtūtēs ac praecipuē admiranda frūgālitas. 25 Cum ei aegrōtanti praecēpisset medicus ut turdum ederet, negārent autem servi eam avem usquam aestivō tempore posse reperiri nisi apud Lūcillum, quī turdōs domī sagināret, vetuit Pompēius turdum inde peti, medicōque dixit: “Ergō, nisi Lūcillus perditus dē- 30 liciis esset, nōn viveret Pompēius?" Aliam avem, quae parābilis esset, sibi iussit appōnī.

Viris doctis māgnū honōrem habēbat Pompēius. Ex Syriā dēcēdēns, cōfectō bellō Mithridāticō, cum 5 Rhodum vēnisset, Posidōnium cupiit audire; sed cum audivisset eum graviter esse aegrum, quod vehementer ēius artūs labōrarent, voluit tamen nōbilissimum philosophum vīsere. Mōs erat ut, cōsule aedēs aliquās ingressūrō, lictor forēs percuteret, admonēns cōsulem 10 adesse; at Pompēius forēs Posidōnī percutī honōris causā vetuit. Quem ut vidit et salūtāvit, molestē sē dixit ferre, quod eum nōn posset audire. At ille, "Tū vērō," inquit, "potes, nec committam ut dolor corporis efficiat ut frūstrā tantus vir ad mē vēnerit." Itaque 15 cubāns graviter et cōpiōsē dē hōc ipsō disputāvit:
nihil esse bonum nisi quod honestum esset, nihil malum dīcī posse quod turpe nōn esset. Cum vērō dolōrēs ācritur eum pungerent, saepe, "Nihil agis," inquit, "dolor! quamvis sis molestus, numquam tē 20 esse malum cōnfitebor."

XXII. Gaius Iulius Caesar.

100-44 B.C.

C. Iūlius Caesar, nōbilissimā Iūliōrum genitus familiā, annum agēns sextum et decimum patrem āmisit.
Cornēliam, Cinnae filiam, dūxit uxōrem; cūius pater cum esset Sullae inimicissimus, is Caesarem voluit 25 compellere ut eam repudiāret; neque id potuit effi-cere. Quā rē Caesar bonis spoliātus cum etiam ad

necem quaereretur, mūtātā veste, nocte urbe ēlapsus est et, quamquam tunc quartānae morbō labōrābat, prope per singulās noctēs latebrās commūtāre cōgēbatur; et comprehēsus ā Sullae libertō, nē ad Sullam perdūceretur, vix datā pecūniā ēvāsīt. Postrēmō per propinquōs et adfinēs suōs veniam impetrāvit. Satis cōstat Sullam, cum dēprecantibus amīcissimīs et ornātissimīs virīs aliquamdiū dēnegāsset atque illi pertināciter contenderent, expūgnātum tandem prōclāmāsse vincerent, dummodo scirent eum quem incolumem tantopere cuperent, aliquandō optimātium partibus, quās sēcum simul dēfendissent, exitiō futūrum; nam Caesarī multōs Mariōs inesse.

Stipendia prīma in Asiā fēcīt. In expūgnātiōne Mitylēnārū corōnā civicā dōnātus est. Mortuō Sullā Rhodum sēcēdere statuit, ut per ōtium Apollōniō Molōnī, tunc clārissimō dicendī magistrō, operam daret. Hūc dum trāicit, ā praedōnibus captus est mānsitque apud eōs prope quadrāgintā diēs. Per omne autem illud spatium ita sē gessit ut pirātis pariter terrōri venerātiōnique esset. Comitēs interim servōsque ad expediendās pecūniās quibus redimeretur, dimīsīt. Vigintī talenta piratae postulāverant: ille quinquāgintā datūrum sē spopondit. Quibus numerātis cum expositus esset in litore, cōfestim Milētum, quae urbs proximē aberat, properāvit ibique contractā classe invectus in eum locum in quō ipsi praedōnēs erant, partem classis fugāvit, partem mersit, aliquot nāvēs cēpit pirātāsque in potestātem redāctōs eō suppliciō quod illis saepe minātus inter iocum erat, adfēcīt crucique suffixit.

Quaestōri ūlterior Hispānia obvēnit. Quō profectus cum Alpēs trānsiret et ad cōspectum pauperis cūiusdam vicī comitēs per iocum inter sē disputārent num illic etiam esset ambitīōnī locus, sēriō dixit Caesar
 5 malle sē ibi primum esse quam Rōmae secundum. Dominātiōnis avidus ā primā aetāte rēgnum concupiscēbat semperque in ōre habēbat hōs Euripidis, Graeci poētae, versūs :

Nam sī violāndum est iūs, rēgnāndī grātiā
 10 Violāndum est, āliis rēbus pīetātēm colās.

Cumque Gādēs, quod est Hispāniae oppidum, vēnisset, animadversā apud Herculis templum māgnī Alexandrī imāgine ingemuit et quasi pertaesus ignāviam suam, quod nihildum ā sē memorābile āctum esset 15 in eā aetāte quā iam Alexander orbem terrārum subegisset, missiōnem continuō efflāgitāvit ad captandās quam primum māiōrum rērū occāsīōnēs in urbe.

 20 et cum conlēgā M. Bibulō et sēparātīm ēdidit ; quō factum est ut commūnium quoque impēnsārū sōlus grātiā caperet. His autem rēbus patrimōnium effūdīt tantumque cōnflāvit aes aliēnum ut ipse diceret sibi opus esse miliēns sēstertiūm ut habēret nihil.

25 Cōsul deinde creātus cum M. Bibulō societātem cum Gnaeō Pompēiō et Mārcō Crassō iūnxit Caesar, nē quid agerētur in rē pūblicā quod displicuisset ūlli ex tribus. Deinde lēgem tulit ut ager Campānus plēbī dividerētur. Cui lēgī cum senātus repūgnārēt, rem ad populum dētulit. Bibulus conlēga in Forum vēnit, ut lēgi obsisteret, sed tanta in eum commōta est sēditiō ut in caput ēius cophinus stercore plēnus effunderētur fascēsque ei frangerentur atque adeō ipse armis Forō expellerētur. Quā rē cum Bibulus per 5 reliquum anni tempus domō abditus cūriā abstinēret, ūnus ex eō tempore Caesar omnia in rē pūblicā ad arbitrium administrābat, ut nōnnūlli urbānōrum, sī quid testandi grātiā signārent, per iocum nōn, ut mōs erat, cōsulibus Caesare et Bibulō āctum scriberent, 10 sed Iūliō et Caesare, ūnum cōsulem nōmine et cōgnōmine prō duōbus appellantēs.

Fūctus cōsulātū Caesar Galliam prōvinciam accēpit. Gessit autem novem annis quibus in imperiō fuit haec ferē : Galliam in prōvinciae fōrmam redēgit; 15 Germānōs, quī trāns Rhēnum incolunt, prīmus Rōmānō-rum ponte fabricātō aggressus māximis adfēcit clādibus.
Aggressus est Britannōs, ignōtōs antea, superātisque pecūniās et obsidēs imperāvit. Hic cum multa Rōmānōrum militum insignia narrantur, tum illud ēgre- 20 gium ipsius Caesaris, quod nūtante in fugam exercitū, raptō fugientis ē manū scūtō, in prīmam volitāns aciem proelium restituit. Idem aliō proeliō legiōnis aquiliferum, ineundae fugae causā iam conversum, faucibus comprehēnsū in contrāriam partem dētrāxit dextram- 25 que ad hostem tendēns, “Quōrsū tū,” inquit, “abīs?
Illic sunt cum quibus dimicāmus.” Quā adhortātiōne omnium legiōnum trepidātiōnem corrēxit, vincique parātās vincere docuit.

Interfectō intereā apud Parthōs Crassō et dēfūctā 30

- Iūliā, Caesaris filiā, quae, nūpta Pompēiō, generi so-cerique concordiam tenēbat, statim aemulatiō ērūpit.
Iam pridem Pompēiō suspectae Caesaris opēs et Caesari Pompēiāna dignitās gravis, nec hīc ferēbat parem, 5 nec ille superiorem. Itaque cum Caesar in Galliā dētinerētur, et, nē imperfectō bellō discēderet, postulāset ut sibi liceret, quamvis absentī, alterum cōn-sulātum petere, ā senātū suādentibus Pompēiō eiusque amicis negātum ei est. Hanc iniūriam acceptam vin-10 dicātūrus in Ītaliā rediit et, bellandum ratus, cum exercitū Rubicōnem flūmen, quī prōvinciae eius finis erat, trānsiit. Hōc ad flūmen paulum cōstitisse fertur ac reputāns quantum mōlirētur, conversus ad proxmōs, “Etiam nunc,” inquit, “regredi possumus; quod 15 sī ponticulum trānsierimus, omnia armis agenda erunt.”
Postrēmō autem, “Iacta ālea estō!” exclāmāns exer-citus trāicī iussit plūrimisque urbibus occupātis Brun-disium contendit, quō Pompēius cōsulēsque cōfūge-rant.
- 20 Quī cum inde in Ēpīrum trāiēcissent, Caesar eōs secūtus ā Brundisiō Dyrrhachium inter oppositās classēs gravissimā hieme trāsmisit; cōpiisque, quās subsequi iusserat, diūtius cessantibus cum ad eās arcessendās frūstrā mīsisset, mīrae audāciae facinus 25 ēdidit. Morae enim impatiēns castris noctū ēgreditur, clam nāviculam cōscendit, obvolūtō capite nē āgnōscerētur et, quamquam mare saevā tempestāte intumē-scēbat, in altum tamen prōtinus dirigī nāvigium iubet et gubernātōre trepidante, “Quid tīmēs?” inquit, 30 “Caesarem vehis!” neque prius gubernātōrem cēdere

adversae tempestātī passus est quam paene obrutus esset fluctibus.

Deinde Caesar in Ēpirum profectus Pompēium Pharsalicō proeliō fūdit, et fugientem persecūtus, ut occisum cōgnōvit, Ptolemaeō rēgī, Pompēi interfectorī, ā quō sibi quoque insidiās tendī vidēret, bellum intulit ; quō victō in Pontum trānsiit Pharnacemque, Mithridātis filium, rebellantem et multiplici successū praeferōcem intrā quintum ab adventū diem, quattuor, quibus in cōnspectum vēnit, hōris unā prōfligāvit aciē mōre fulminis quod unō eōdemque mōmentō vēnit, percussit, abscessit. Nec vāna dē sē praedicātiō est Caesaris, ante victum hostem esse quam vīsum. Ponticō postea triumphō trium verbōrum praetulit titulum : “ Vēni, vidī, vici.” Deinde Scipionem et Iubam, Numidiāe rēgem, reliquiās Pompēiānārum partium in Āfricā refoventēs, dēvicit.

Victōrem Āfricānī bellī Gāium Caesarem gravius excēpit Hispāniēse, quod Cn. Pompēius, Māgni filius, adulēscēns fortissimus, ingēns ac terribile cōnflāverat, undique ad eum auxiliis paternī nōminis māgnitudinem sequentium ex tōtō orbe cōnfluentibus. Sua Caesarem in Hispāniam comitāta fortūna est ; sed nūllum umquam atrōcius periculōsiusque ab eō initum proelium, adeō ut, plūs quam dubiō Mārte, dēscenderet equō cōnsistēnsque ante recēdentem suōrum aciem, increpāns Fortūnam, quod sē in eum servāsset exitum, dēnūntiāret militibus vestigiō sē nōn recessūrum ; proinde vidērent quem et quō locō imperātōrem dēsertūri essent. Verēcundiā magis quam virtūte aciēs re-

- 5 Bellis civilibus confectis conversus iam ad ōrdinandum rei pūblīcae statum, fāstōs corrēxit annumque ad cursum sōlis accommodāvit, ut trecentōrum sexāgintā quīnque diērum esset et intercalāriō mēse sublātō ūnus diēs quartō quōque annō intercalārētur. Iūs 10 labōriōsissimē āc sevērissimē dixit. Repetundārum convīctōs etiam ōrdine senātōriō mōvit. Peregrīnārum mercium portōria instituit; lēgem praecipuē sūmptuāriam exercuit. Dē ōrmandā instruendāque urbe, item dē tuendō ampliandōque imperiō plūra āc māiōra in 15 diēs dēstinābat; imprimīs iūs civile ad certum modum redigere atque ex immēnsā lēgum cōpiā optima quaeque et necessāria in paucissimōs cōferre librōs; bibliothēcās Graecās et Latinās quās māximās posset publicāre; siccāre Pomptinās palūdēs; viam mūnīre 20 ā Marī Superō per Appenninī dorsum ad Tiberim usque; Dācōs quī sē in Pontum effūderant, coērcēre; mox Parthis bellum inferre per Armeniam.

- Haec et alia agentem et meditantem mors praevēnit. Dictātor enim in perpetuum creātus agere insolentius 25 coepit; senātum ad sē venientem sedēns excēpit et quendam, ut adsurgeret, monentem irātō voltū respēxit. Cum Antōnius, Caesaris in omnibus bellis comes et tunc cōsulātūs conlēga, capiti ēius in sellā atreā sedentis prō rōstris diadēma, insigne rēgium, imposu-30 isset, id ita ab eō est repulsum ut nōn offēnsus vidē-

Plūrima indicia futūrī periculī obtulerant diī immortālēs. Uxor Calpurnia territa nocturnō visū, ut Īdibus Mārtiis domī subsisteret ōrābat, et Spūrinna haruspex praedixerat ut proximōs diēs trigintā quasi fātālēs cavēret, quōrum ūltimus erat Īdūs Mārtiae. Hōc igitur diē Caesar Spūrinnae, “Ecquid scīs,” inquit, “Īdūs Mārtiās iam vēnisse?” et is, “Ecquid scīs illās nōndum praeterisse?” Atque cum Caesar eō diē in senātum vēnisset, adsidentem coniūrātī speciē officī circumstetērunt ilicōque ūnus, quasi aliquid rogātūrus, propius accessit renuentique ab utrōque umerō togam apprehendit. Deinde clāmantem, “Ista quidem vis est,” Casca, ūnus ē coniūrātis, adversum volnerat paulum infrā iugulum. Caesar Cascae brachium adreptum graphiō trāiēcit cōnātusque prōsilire aliō volnere tardātus est. Dein ut animadvertit undique sē strictis pugiōnibus petī, togā caput obvolvīt et ita tribus et vīginti plāgis cōnfossus est. Cum Mārcum Brūtum, quem fili locō habēbat, in sē inruentem vidisset, dixisse fertur : “Tū quoque, mī fili !”

Illud inter omnēs ferē cōstitit, tālem ei mortem paene ex sententiā obtigisse. Nam et quondam cum apud Xenophōntem lēgisset Cŷrum ūltimā valētūdine mandāsse quaedam dē fūnere suō, āspērnatūs tam lentum mortis genus, subitam sibi celeremque optāverat, et pridīē quam occīderētur, in sermōne nātō super cēnam quisnam esset finis vitae commodissimus, repentinum inopinātumque praetulerat. Percussōrum autem neque trienniō quisquam amplius supervixit neque suā morte dēfūctus est. Damnatī omnēs alius aliō cāsū periērunt, pars naufragiō, pars proeliō ; nōn-5 nūlli sēmet eōdem illō pugione quō Caesarem violāverant, interēmērunt.

Quō rārior in rēgibus et prīncipibus virīs moderātiō, hōc laudanda magis est. C. Iūlius Caesar victōriā civili clēmētissimē ūsus est ; cum enim scrīnia dē-
10 prehēdisset epistulārum ad Pompēium missārum ab eis quī vidēbantur aut in diversis aut in neutris fuisse partibus, legere nōluit, sed combūssit, nē forte in multōs gravius cōsulendī locum darent. Cicerō hanc laudem eximiam Caesarī tribuit, quod nihil oblivisci 15 solēret nisi iniuriās. Simultātēs omnēs occāsiōne oblātā libēns dēposuit. Ūltrō āc prior scripsit C. Calvō post fāmōsa eius adversum sē epigrammata. Valerium Catullum, cūius versiculīs fāmam suam lace-rātam nōn ignōrābat, adhibuit cēnae. C. Memmī 20 suffrāgātōr in petitiōne cōsulātūs fuit, etsī asperrimās fuisse eius in sē ōrātiōnēs sciēbat.

Fuisse trāditur excelsā statūrā, ōre paulō plēniōre, nigris vegetisque oculis, capite calvo ; quam calviti dēfōrmitātem, quod saepe obtrectātōrum iocis obnoxia 25 erat, aegrē ferēbat. Ideō ex omnibus dēcrētis sibi ā senātū populōque honōribus nōn alium aut recēpit aut ūsūrpāvit libentius quam iūs laureae perpetuō gestandae. Vinī parcissimū eum fuisse nē inimici quidem negāvērunt. Verbum Catōnis est, ūnum ex brium accessisse. Armōrum et equitandī perītissimus, labōris ūltrā fidem patiēns; in āgmine nōnumquam equō, saepius pedibus anteibat, capite dētēctō, seu sōl, seu imber erat. Longissimās viās incrēdibili cele-ritāte cōficiēbat, ut persaepe nūntiōs dē sē praeveni- 5 ret; neque eum morābantur flūmina, quae vel nandō vel innixus inflātis ūtribus trāiciēbat.

XXIII. Marcus Tullius Cicero.

106-43 B.C.

Mārcus Tullius Cicerō, equestri genere, Arpinī, quod est Volscōrum oppidum, nātus est. Ex ēius avis ūnus verrūcam in extrēmō nāsō sitam habuit, ciceris grānō 10 similem; inde cōgnōmen Cicerōnis gentī inditum. Suādentibus quibusdam ut id nōmen mūtāret: “Dabō operam,” inquit, “ut istud cōgnōmen nōbilissimōrum nōminum splendōrem vincat.” Cum ā patre Rōmam missus, ubi celeberrimōrum magistrōrum scholis in- 15 teresset, eās artēs disceret quibus aetās puerilis ad hūmānitātem solet infōrmārī, tantō successū tantāque cum praeceptōrum tum cēterōrum discipulōrum admīrātiōne id fēcit ut, cum fāma dē Cicerōnis ingenio et doctrinā ad aliōs mānāset, nōn paucī, quī ēius videndī 20 et audiendī grātiā scholās adirent, repertī esse dicantur.

Cum nullā rē magis ad summōs in rē pūblicā hon-rēs viam mūniri posse intellexeret quam arte dicendi et ēloquentiā, tōtō animō in ēius studium incubuit; in quō quidem ita versātus est ut nōn solum eōs, quī 25 in Forō et iūdicīis causās perōrārent, studiōsē sectārētur, sed privātim quoque diligentissimē sē exercēret. Prīmum ēloquentiam et libertātem adversus Sullānōs ostendit. Nam cum Rōscium quendam, parricidī ac-cūsatum, ob Chrēsogonī, Sullae liberti, quī in eius adversāriis erat, potentiam nēmō dēfendere auderet, tantā ēloquentiae vī eum dēfendit Cicerō ut iam tum in arte dicendī nūllus ei pār esse vidērētur. Ex quō invidiam veritus Athēnās studiōrum grātiā petiit, ubi 10 Antiochum philosophum studiōsē audivit. Inde ēloquentiae causā Rhodum sē contulit, ubi Molōnem, Graecum rhētorem tum disertissimum, magistrum habuit. Quī cum Cicerōnem dicentem audivisset, flēvisse dicitur, quod per hunc Graecia ēloquentiae 15 laude privārētur.

Rōmam reversus quaestor Siciliam habuit. Nūllius vērō quaestūra aut grātor aut clārior fuit; cum māgna tum esset annōnae difficultās, initiō molestus erat Siculis, quōs cōgeret frūmenta in urbem mittere; 20 postea vērō, diligentiam et iūstitiam et cōmitātem eius expertī, māiorēs quaestōri suō honōrēs quam ūlli umquam praetōri dētulērunt. E Siciliā reversus Rōmam in causis dicendis ita flōruit ut inter omnēs causārum patrōnōs et esset et habērētur princeps.

25 Cōsul deinde factus L. Sergi Catilinae coniūrātiōnem singulārī virtūte, cōstantiā, cūrā compressit.
Catilinae proavum, M. Sergium, incrēdibili fortitudīne fuisse Plinius refert. Stipendia is fēcit secundō bellō Pūnicō. Secundō stipendiō dextram manum perdidit; 30 stipendiis duōbus ter et viciēns volnerātus est; ob id neutrā manū, neutrō pede satis ūtilis, plūrimisque postea stipendiis dēbilis, miles erat. Bis ab Hannibale captus, bis vinculōrum eius profugus, viginti mēnsibus nūllō nōn diē in catēnis aut compedibus custōditus.

Sinistrā manū solā quater pūgnāvit, duōbus equis in- 5 sidente eō suffossis. Dextram sibi ferream fēcit eāque religātā proeliātus Cremōnam obsidiōne exēmit, Placentiam tūtātus est, duodēna castra hostium in Galliā cēpit. “Cēteri profectō,” Plinius addit, “victōrēs hominum fuēre, Sergius vicit etiam fortunam.” 10

Singulārem huius viri glōriam foedē dehonestāvit pronepōtis scelus. Hic enim rei familiāris, quam profūderat, inopiā multōrumque scelerum cōscientiā in furōrem āctus et dominandī cupiditāte incēsus, indignātusque quod in petitiōne cōsulātus repulsam passus 15 esset, coniūrātiōne factā, senātum cōfodere, cōsulēs trucidāre, urbem incendere, diripere aerārium cōsti-tuerat. Āctum erat dē pulcherrimō imperiō, nisi illa coniūrātiō in Cicerōnem et Antōnium cōsulēs inci-disset, quōrum alter industriā rem patefēcit, alter manū 20 oppressit. Cum Cicerō habitō senātū in praesentem reum perōrāsset, Catilina, incendium suum ruīnā sē restitūtū esse minitāns, Rōmā profugit et ad ex-ercitum quem parāverat, proficiscitur, signa inlātūrus urbī. Sed socii eius, quī in urbe remāanserant, com- 25 prehēnsi in carcere necātī sunt. A. Fulvius, vir senā-tōrii ōrdinis, filium, iuvenem et ingeniō et fōrmā inter aequālēs nitentem, prāvō cōsiliō Catilinae amicitiam secūtum inque castra eius ruentem, ex mediō itinere retractum supplicio mortis adfēcit, praefātus nōn sē 30

Catilinae illum adversus patriam, sed patriae adversus Catilinam genuisse.

Neque eō magis ab inceptō Catilina dēstitit, sed infestis signis Rōmam petēns Antōnī exercitū opprimitur. Quam atrōciter dimicātum sit, exitus docuit; nēmō hostium bellō superfuit; quem quisque in pūgnandō cēperat locum, eum āmissā animā tegēbat. Catilina longē ā suis inter hostium cadāvera repertus est: pulcherrimā morte, si prō patriā sic concidisset!

10 Senātus populusque Rōmānus Cicerōnem patrem patriae appellāvit. Cicerō ipse in ōrātiōne prō Sullā palam praedicat cōnsilium patriae servandae fuisse iniectum sibi ā diis, cum Catilina coniūrāset adversus eam. “O dii immortālēs,” inquit, “vōs profectō in-

Paucis post annis Cicerōni diem dixit Clōdīus tribūnus plēbis, quod civēs Rōmānōs indictā causā necāvisset. Senātus maestus, tamquam in pūblicō lūctū, veste mūtātā prō eō dēprecābātur. Cicerō, cum posset armis salūtem suam dēfendere, māluit urbe cēdere quam suā causā caedem fieri. Proficiscentem omnēs

prōposuit ut Mārcō Tulliō igni et aquā interdicerētur; illius domum et villās incendit. Sed vīs illa nōn diūturna fuit; mox enim tōtus ferē populus Rōmānus ingentī dēsideriō Cicerōnis reditum flāgitāre coepit et māximō omnium ōrdinum studiō Cicerō in patriam 5 revocātus est. Nihil per tōtam vītam Cicerōnī itinere quō in patriam rediit, accidit iūcundius. Obviam ei redeuntī ab ūniversis itum est; domus ēius pūblicā pecūniā restitūta est.

Gravissimae illā tempestāte inter Caesarem et Pom- 10 pēium ortae sunt inimicitiae, ut rēs nisi bellō dirimi nōn posse vidērētur. Cicerō quidem summō studiō ēnitēbātur ut eōs inter sē reconciliāret et ā bellī civilis calamitātibus dēterreret, sed cum neutrum ad pācem ineundam permovēre posset, Pompēium secūtus est. 15 Sed victō Pompēiō, ā Caesare victōre veniam ūltrō accēpit. Quō interfectō Octāviānum, Caesaris hērēdem, fōvit, Antōnium impūgnāvit effēcitque ut ā senātū hostis iūdicārētur.

Sed Antōnius, initā cum Octāviānō societāte, Cicerō- 20 nem iam diū sibi inimicum prōscripsit. Quā rē auditā Cicerō trānsversis itineribus in villam, quae ā mari proximē aberat, fūgit indeque nāvem cōnscendit in Macedoniam trānsitūrus. Unde aliquotiēns in altum prōvectum cum modo ventī adversī rettulissent, modo 25 ipse iactātiōnem maris pati nōn posset, taedium tandem eum et fugae et vītae cēpit regressusque ad villam, “Moriar,” inquit, “in patriā saepe servātā.” Satis cōnstat, adventantibus percussōribus servōs fortiter fidēliterque parātōs fuisse ad dimicandum, ipsum dē- 30

pōnī lecticam et quiētōs pati quod sors iniqua cōgeret, iussisse. Prōminentī ex lecticā et immōtam cervicem praebeantī caput praecisum est. Manūs quoque abscisae; caput relātum est ad Antōnium ēiusque iūssū 5 cum dextrā manū in rōstris positum.

Quam diū rēs pūblica Rōmāna per eōs gerēbātui quibus sē ipsa commiserat, in eam cūrās cōgitatiōnēs-que ferē omnēs suās cōferēbat Cicerō et plūs operae pōnēbat in agendō quam in scribendō. Cum autem 10 dominātū ūnius C. Iūli Caesaris omnia tenērentur, nōn sē angōribus dēdidit nec indignīs homine doctō voluptātibus. Fugiēns cōspectum Forī urbisque rūra peragrābat abdēbatque sē, quantum licēbat, et sōlus erat. Nihil agere autem cum animus nōn posset, ex-15 istimāvit honestissimē molestiās posse dēpōnī, si sē ad philosophiam rettulisset, cui adulēscēns multum temporis tribuerat, et omne studium cūramque con-vertit ad scribendum; atque ut civibus etiam ōtiōsus aliquid prōdesse posset, ēlabōrāvit ut doctiōrēs fierent 20 et sapientiōrēs, plūraque brevī tempore ēversā rē pūblicā scripsit quam multis annis eā stante scripserat. Sic fācundiae et Latinārum litterārum parēns ēvāsit pāruitque virōrum sapientium praeceptō, qui docent nōn sōlum ex malis ēligere minima oportēre, 25 sed etiam excerpere ex his ipsis, si quid insit bonī.

Multa exstant facētē ab eō dicta. Cum Lentulum, generum suum, exiguae statūrae hominem, vidisset longō gladiō accinctum, “Quis,” inquit, “generum meum ad gladium adligāvit?” — Mātrōna quaedam tantum annōs habēre; cui Cicerō, “Vērū est,” inquit, “nam hōc vigintī annōs audiō.” — Caesar, alterō cōnsule mortuō diē Decembris ūltimā, Caninium cōnsulem hōrā septimā in reliquam diēi partem renūntiāverat, quem cum plērīque irent salūtātum dē mōre, 5

XXIV. Caesar Octavianus Augustus.

63 B.C.—14 A.D.

Octāviānus, Iūliae, Gāi Caesaris sorōris, nepōs, 10 quartum annum agēns patrem āmisit. Ab avunculō adoptātus profectum eum in Hispāniās adversus Gnaei Pompēi liberōs secūtus est. Deinde ab eō Apollōniam missus studiis vacāvit. Utque primum occisum Caesarem hērēdemque sē comperit, in urbem regressus 15 hērēditātem adiit, nōmen Caesaris sūmpsit conlētōque veterānōrum exercitū opem Decimō Brūtō tulit, qui ab Antōniō Mutinae obsidēbātur. Cum autem urbis aditū prohibērētur, ut Brūtum dē omnibus rēbus certiorē faceret, primō litterās misit plumbeis lāminis 20
 inscriptās, quās ad brachium religātās ūrinātōrēs Scultennam amnem trānantēs ad Brūtum dēferēbant. Quin et avibus internūntiis ūtēbātur. Columbīs enim, quās inclūsās ante famē adfēcerat, epistulās ad collum religābat eāsque ā proximō moenibus locō ēmittēbat. 25

Illae, lūcis cibique avidae, altissima aedificiōrum petentēs excipiēbantur ā Decimō Brūtō; quī eō modō dē omnibus rēbus certior fiēbat, utique postquam dispositō quibusdam locis cibō columbās illūc dēvolāre 5 instituerat.

Bellum Mutinēse Octāviānus duōbus proeliis cōn-fēcit; quōrum in alterō nōn ducis modo, sed militis etiam fūctus est officiō atque in mediā dimicātiōne, aquiliferō legiōnis suae graviter sauciō, aquilam umeris 10 subisse diūque fertur portāsse. Posteā reconciliātā cum Antōniō grātiā iūctisque cum eō cōpiis, ut Gāi Caesaris necem ulciscerētur, ad urbem hostiliter acces-sit mīsique quī nōmine exercitūs sibi cōsulātum dēposcerent. Cunctante senātū centuriō, princeps 15 lēgatiōnis, rēiectō sagulō, ostendēns gladi capulum nōn dubitāvit in cūriā dicere: “Hic faciet, si vōs nōn fēceritis.”

Ita cum Octāviānus vicēsimo aetātis annō cōsulā-tum invāsisset, pācem fēcit cum Antōniō et Lepidō 20 ita ut triumvirī rei pūblīcae cōstituendae per quīnquennium essent ipse et Lepidus et Antōnius, et ut suos quisque inimicōs prōscriberent. Quae prōscriptiō Sullānā longē crudēlior fuit. Exstant autem ex eā multa vel extrēmae impietātis vel mirae fidei ac cōn-25 stantiae exempla. T. Tōranus, triumvirōrum partēs secūtus, prōscripti patris sui, praetōrii et ōrnāti viri, latebrās, aetātem, notāsque corporis quibus āgnōsci posset, centuriōnibus ēdidit, quī eum persecūtī sunt.
Alius quīdam cum prōscriptum sē cōgnōvisset, ad 30 clientem suum cōnfūgit; sed filius eius, per ipsa

vestigia patris militibus ductis, occidendum eum in cōspectū suō obiēcit.

Cum C. Plōtius Plancus ā triumvirīs prōscriptus in regiōne Salernitānā latēret, servī ēius comprehēsi multumque āc diū tortī negābant sē scire ubi dominus esset. Nōn sustinuit deinde Plancus tam fidēlēs tamque boni exemplī servōs ūlterius cruciārī; sed prōcessit in medium iugulumque gladiis militum obiēcit. 5

Senātōris cūiusdam servus cum ad dominum prōscriptum occidendum militēs advēnisse cōgnōsset, commūtātā cum eō veste, permūtātō etiam ānulō, illum posticō clam ēmisit, sē autem in cubiculum ad lectulum recēpit et sē prō dominō occidī passus est. “Quanti viri est,” addit Seneca, “cum praemia prōditionis ingentia ostendantur, praemium fidei mortem concupiscere!” 15

Octāviānus deinde M. Brūtum, interfectōrem Caesaris, bellō persecūtus id bellum, quamquam invalidus atque aeger, duplici proeliō trānsēgit; quōrum priōre castris exūtus vix fugā ēvāsit. Vīctor acerbissimē sē gessit; in nōbilissimum quemque captivum nōn sine verbōrum contumēliā saeviit. Ūnī suppliciter sepul-tūram precantī respondisse dīcitur iam istam in volum-crum fore potestāte. Aliōs, patrem et filium, prō vitā rogantēs, sortiri fertur iussisse, ut alterutri concēderē-tur, āc cum patre, quia sē obtulerat, occisō filius quo- 25 que voluntāriā occubisset nece, spectāsse utrumque morientem. Orāre veniam vel excūsāre sē cōnantibus ūnā vōce occurrēbat, moriendum esse. Scribunt quī-dam trecentōs ex dēditiciis ēlēctōs ad āram divō Iūliō exstrūctam Īdibus Mārtiis hostiārū mōre mactātōs. 30

Abaliēnātus posteā est ab Antōniō, quod is repudiātā Octāviā sorōre Cleopatram, Aegypti rēginam, dūxisset uxōrem; quae quidem mulier cum Antōniō lūxū et dēliciis certābat. Ūnā sē cēnā centiēns sēster-
5 tiūm absūmptūram aliquandō dixerat. Cupiēbat discere Antōnius, sed fieri posse nōn arbitrābātur. Posterō igitur diē māgnificam aliās cēnam, sed cottidiānam Antōniō apposuit inridenti quod prōmissō stāre nōn potuisset. At illa inferri mēnsam secundam iussit.
10 Ex praeceptō ministri ūnum tantum vās ante eam posuēre acētī, cūius asperitās visque margaritās resolvit. Exspectante igitur Antōniō quidnam esset āctūra, margaritam, quam auribus gerēbat, dētrāxit et acētō liquefactum absorbit. Victum Antōnium omnēs, qui 15 aderant, prōnūntiāvērunt.

Octāviānus cum Antōniō apud Actium, quī locus est in Epirō, nāvālī proeliō dimicāvit. Victum et fugientem persecūtus Aegyptum petiit, et Alexandrēam, quō Antōnius cum Cleopatrā cōnfūgerat, obsēdit.
20 Antōnius in ūltimā rērum dēspērātiōne, cum habitū rēgis in soliō rēgālī sēdisset, mortem sibi ipse cōnscivit. Cleopatra, quam Octāviānus, Alexandrēā in potestātem redāctā, māgnopere cupiēbat vivam comprehendī triumphōque servārī, aspidem sibi adferendam
25 cūrāvit ēiusque morsū periit. Cleopatrae mortuae commūnem cum Antōniō sepultūram tribuit.

Tandem Octāviānus, hostibus victis, sōlus imperiō potitus, clēmentem sē exhibuit. Omnia posteā in eō plēna mānsuētūdinis et hūmānitātis. Multis ignōvit 30 vel eis quī saepe graviter eum offenderant. Reversus in Ītaliā triumphāns Rōmā in ingressus est. Tum bellis tōtō orbe compositis Iānī geminī portās suā manū clausit, quae bis tantum antea clausae fuerant, primum sub Numā rēge, iterum post primum Pūnicum bellum. Tunc omnēs praeteritōrum malōrum obliuio 5 cēpit populusque Rōmānus praesentis ōtī laetitīā perfruēbātur. Octāviānō māximī honōrēs ā senātū dēlāti sunt. Ipse Augustus cōgnōminātus et in honōrem ēius mēsis Sextilis eōdem nōmine appellātus est, quod illō mēse bellis civilibus finis esset impositus. 10 Patris patriae cōgnōmen ūniversī māximō cōnsēnsū dētulērunt ei. Dēferentibus lacrimāns respondit Augustus his verbis: “Compos factus vōtōrum meōrum, patrēs cōscriptī, quid habeō aliud quod deōs immortalēs precer, quam ut hunc cōnsēnsū vēstrum ad 15 ūltimum vitae finem mihi perferre liceat!”

Dictātūrā māgnā vī offerente populō dēprecātus est. Dominī appellātiōnem semper exhorruit eamque sibi tribuī ēdictō vetuit. Immō dē restituendā rē pūblicā nōn semel cōgitāvit, sed reputāns et sē prī- 20 vātum nōn sine periculō fore, et rem pūblicā plūrium arbitriō commissum iri, summā retinuit potestātem, id vērō studuit, nē quem novī statūs paenitēret. Bene dē eis etiam quōs adversāriōs expertus erat, et sentiēbat et loquēbātur. Legentem aliquandō ūnum ē nepō- 25 tibus invēnit; cumque puer territus volūmen Cicerōnis, quod manū tenēbat, veste tegeret, Augustus librum cēpit eōque statim redditō: “Hic vir,” inquit, “fili mī, doctus fuit et patriae amāns.”

Pedibus saepe per urbem incēdēbat summāque cōmi- 30

tāte adeuntēs excipiēbat. Convēnit aliquandō eum veterānus miles, quī vocātus in iūs periclitābātur, rogāvitque ut sibi adesset; statim Augustus ūnum ē comitātū suō ēlēgit advocātum, quī litigātorem com-5 mendāret. Tum veterānus exclāmāvit, “At nōn ego, tē periclitante bellō Actiacō, vicārium quaesivī, sed ipse prō tē pūgnāvī,” simulque dētēxit cicātricēs. Erubuit Augustus atque ipse vēnit in advocātiōnem.

Cum post Actiacam victōriam Octāviānus Rōmam
10 reverterētur, occurrit ei inter grātulantēs opifex quidam corvum tenēns, quem instituerat haec dicere: “Avē, Caesar, victor, imperātor!” Mirātus Caesar officiōsam avem vīgintī milibus nummōrum ēmit. Socius opificis, ad quem nihil ex illā liberālitate pervēnerat, adfirmāvit 15 Caesari habēre illum et alium corvum, quem ut adferre cōgerētur rogāvit. Adlātus verba quae didicerat, expressit: “Avē, Antōnī, victor, imperātor!” Nihil exasperātus Caesar satis dūxit iubēre illum dividere dōnātivum cum contubernālī. Salūtātus similiter ā 20 psittacō emī eum iussit.

Exemplum sūtōrem pauperem sollicitāvit ut corvum institueret ad parem salūtātiōnem. Quī impendiō exhaustus saepe ad avem nōn respondentem dicere solēbat: “Opera et impēnsa periit!” Aliquandō 25 tamen corvus coepit dicere dictam salūtātiōnem. Hāc auditā, dum trānsit, Augustus respondit: “Satis domī tālium salūtātōrum habeō.” Superfuit corvō memoria, ut et illa, quibus dominum querentem solēbat audire, subtexeret, “Opera et impēnsa periit.” Ad quod Caesar 30 risit emīque avem iussit quanti nūllam ante ēmerat.

Solēbat Graeculus quīdam dēscendenti ē palātiō Caesarī honōrificum aliquod epigramma porrigere. Id cum frūstrā saepe fēcisset et tamen rūsus eum idem factūrum dūxisset Augustus, breve suā manū in chartā exarāvit Graecum epigramma et Graeculō advenienti 5 obviam mīsit. Ille inter legendum laudāre mirārique tam vōce quam voltū gestūque. Deinde cum accessisset ad sellam quā Caesar vehēbātur, dēmissā in pauperem crumēnam manū paucōs dēnariōs prōtulit, quōs principī daret dixitque sē plūs datūrum fuisse, 10 sī plūs habuisset. Secūtō omnium risū dispēnsātorem Caesar vocāvit et satis grandem pecūniae summam numerārī Graeculō iussit.

Augustus ferē nulli sē invitanti negābat. Exceptus igitur ā quōdam cēnā satis parcā et paene cottidiānā, 15 hōc tantum insusurrāvit, “Nōn putābam mē tibi esse tam familiārem.” Cum aliquandō apud Pōlliōnem quendam cēnāret frēgissetque ūnus ē servīs vās crystallinum, rapī eum ad mortem Pōlliō iussit et obici mūraenis quās ingēns piscīna continēbat. Eṽāsit ē 20 manibus puer et ad pedēs Caesaris cōnfūgit nihil aliud petitūrus quam ut aliter perīret nec ēsca piscium fieret. Mōtus est novō crūdēlītātis genere Caesar et illum quidem mitti, crystallina autem omnia cōram sē frangi iussit complērique piscinam. 25

ingentis praemi. Cui cum Augustus mille nummōs dari iussisset, ille minus dignum praemium existimāns dicere ausus est, “Mālō ut vivat,” et avem dimisit. Imperātōrī nec ad irāscendum causa deerat nec ad 5 ulciscendum potestās; hanc tamen iniūriam aequō animō tulit Augustus hominemque impūnitum abire passus est.

Augustus amicitias neque facile admisit et cōstantissimē retinuit. Imprimis familiārem habuit Mae-
10 cēnātem, equitem Rōmānum; quī eā quā apud principem valēbat grātiā ita semper ūsus est ut prōdesset omnibus quibus posset, nocēret nēminī. Iūs aliquandō dicēbat Augustus et multōs capite damnātūrus vidēbātur. Aderat tum Maecēnās, quī per circumstantium

20 Habitāvit Augustus in aedibus modicis, neque laxitate neque cultū cōspicuis, ac per annōs amplius quadrāgintā in eōdem cubiculō hieme et aestāte mānsit. Supellex quoque eius vix privātae ēlegantiae erat. Rārō veste aliā ūsus est quam cōfectā ab
25 uxōre, sorōre, filiā neptibusque. Item tamen Rōmam, quam prō māiestāte imperī nōn satis ōrnatam invēnerat, adeō excoluit ut iūre glōriārētur marmoream sē relinquere quam latericiam accēpisset.

Fōrmā fuit Augustus eximiā et per omnēs aetātis 30 gradūs venustissimā. Erat tamen omnis lēnōcini

neglegēns et in capite cōmendō tam incūriōsus ut eō ipsō tempore quō illud tōnsōribus committeret, aut legeret aliquid aut etiam scriberet.

Paucis annis ante quam moreretur, gravissimam in Germāniā accēpit clādem, tribus legiōnibus cum duce 5 Vārō lēgātisque et auxiliis omnibus caesis. Hāc nūntiātā excubiās per urbem indixit, nē quis tumultus exsisteret, et māgnōs lūdōs Iovī optimō māximō vōvit, sī rēs pūblica in meliōrem statum vertisset. Adeō dēnique cōsternātum ferunt ut, per continuōs mēnsēs 10 barbā capillōque submissō, caput interdum foribus inluderet, vōciferāns: “Quinctili Vāre, legiōnēs redde!” diemque clādis quotannis maestum habuerit ac lūgubrem.

Tandem adflictā valētūdine in Campāniam concessit, 15 ubi, remissō ad ōtium animō, nullō hilaritātis genere abstinuit. Suprēmō vitae diē petitō speculō capillum sibi cōmī iussit et amīcōs circumstantēs percontātus ecquid eis vidērētur mīnum vitae commodē trānsēgisse, adiēcīt solitam clausulam: “Ēdite strepitum vōsque 20 omnēs cum gaudiō applaudite.” Obiit Nōlae sextum et septuāgēsimum annum agēns.

NOTES.

I. Romani imperi exordium.

The beginnings of Rome, like those of other powers of old, are shrouded in much doubt and uncertainty. That some truth lies hid in the mass of fables that Fabius, Piso, Tubero, Livy, and other Latin historians have left us, cannot be questioned; but where fiction ends and fact begins, is the question that has been troubling scholars ever since the middle of the 18th century, when the credibility of early Roman history first began to be suspected. The Romans themselves believed the stories as they came down to them, and they were accepted as trustworthy for many centuries. The first volume of Niebuhr's great work, which appeared in 1811, first brought before the world the results of a scientific investigation of the subject. It was made clear that many of the traditions were manufactured to explain facts and institutions already existing at the beginning of authentic history, that much was derived from Greek sources; that the Alban kings and the seven kings of Rome were mythical; that, in short, nothing prior to the destruction of the city by the Gauls in 390 B.C. could be received unchallenged.

The student is referred for a full discussion of this subject to the following books:

Liddell's History of Rome, Bk. I., Chap. V.

Duruy's History of Rome, Vol. I., Chaps. I. and II.

Ihne's Early Rome, Chaps. II. and IV.

Mommsen's History of Rome, Vol. I.

Page 1. 1. Proca: the twelfth of the mythical kings of Alba. For gender see A. 35, Exc.; H. 48, 5, 1. — Albānōrum: the people of Alba, a city in Latium, S. E. of Rome. It stretched along a narrow ridge of land and from this fact is often called Alba Longa.

2. Numitōri: put first for emphasis, to contrast with Amūlius in the next clause. — nātū: v. A. 253; H. 424.

3. pulsō frātre: after he had expelled his brother. A. 255, d. and note; H. 431, 1, 2. Avoid a literal translation of the ablative absolute.

4. subole: cons. A. 243, a; H. 414, I. — filiam: decl. A. 36, e; H. 49, 4. — Vestae: the goddess of the home and the fireside. She was worshiped in every house; and, in addition, had public sacred worship in a temple. There the Vestal virgins kept the fire forever burning upon her altar.

5. sacerdōtem: cons. A. 239, 1, a; H. 373, 1.

6. Eā rē cōgnitā: cf. frātre, l. 3. — ipsam = the mother; lit. herself.

7. alveō: cons. A. 228; H. 386. — Tiberim: for form v. A. 56, a, 1; H. 62, II, 2, (1). The Tiber is the largest river in Latium. At Rome it is some four hundred feet wide and from twelve to eighteen feet deep. After heavy rains it overflows its banks even as in ancient days.

9. relābente flūmine: cf. Eā rē cōgnitā, l. 6. — eōs: by being put before the subject aqua, the object is made emphatic and is strongly contrasted with it, — THEM the water left on the shore.

9. Vāstae: note the emphatic position.

10. locis: v. A. 78, 2, b; H. 141. — ut = as. Ut with an indicative is translated by as, how, or when; with a subjunctive by in order that, in order to, for the purpose of, in order that not (after verbs of fearing), so that, or though.

12. ōrī: cons. cf. alveō, l. 7. — sē gessit: sē gerere = to conduct oneself, act as.

13. Cum is either a preposition or a conjunction. If it be a preposition that fact will be determined by the ablative following it; if it be a conjunction it may mean when, since, or although. In the sense of when it will take the indicative when used with a present or a future tense, or with a past tense when defining or fixing the time of the main action; otherwise the subjunctive is used. Practically the instances of cum with a past indicative are not very common. In the sense of since or of although, cum is followed by the subjunctive. — saepius: again and again.

14. reverterētur: see note on cum above, also A. 323, 325; H.

521, II, 2. — pāstor rēgius = the king's shepherd. A. 214, a, 2; H. 395, n. 2.

16. ēducandōs agrees with eōs. A. 294, d; H. 544, 2, n. 2, — primō: beginning a series is followed by deinde meaning next, or in the second place.

18. rapīnā: A. 243; H. 413, n. 3.

19. Quā rē: A. 245; H. 416. — eīs: cf. ōrī p. 1. l. 12. — īnsidiātī essent: cf. reverterētur l. 14.

Page 2. 1. esset: an indirect question is a question used as subject, as object, or as appositive. How is it used here? — māter: sc. fuisse.

2. armātis properāvit: armed the shepherds AND hastened, etc. It is often best to translate a verb and participle by two verbs connected by and. Latin prefers the subordinate, English the coördinate construction. — Albam: why no preposition? A. 258, b; H. 380, II.

4. solitus esset: cons. A. 312; H. 513, II, n. 1.

5. ā rēge: the ablative of the agent, as distinguished from the ablative of the means, takes the preposition ā, or ab.

8. haud procul erat quīn: he lacked little of . . ., on cons. of agnōsceret, v. A. 319, d; H. 504, 4.

9. lineāmentis: for cons. cf. nātū, p. 1. l. 2. — mātrī: what would MATRIS simillimus mean?

10. Ea rēs: words in a subordinate clause that are specially emphatic are often put before the conjunction.

11. dum in temporal clauses means either while or until. If the former, it is followed by the indicative, if the latter, usually by the subjunctive. — tenet: for tense v. A. 328, a; H. 467, 4.

12. supervenit: what tense? A. 276, d; H. 467, III, 1.

16. uter: distinguish between uter, uterque; quis, and quisque.

17. daret . . . regeret: v. esset, above. — auspicia: this word (v. voc. for etymology) and augurium are terms used to refer to the will of the gods as interpreted by the flight of birds. A college of priests known as augurs, founded by Romulus, had this for its special business. Nothing of importance was undertaken at Rome without first taking the auspices.

19. auguriō: abl. of cause, or means.
 21. vāllum: this was a mere earth-work.
 23. sic deinde: sc. pereat.
 24. sōlus: note emphasis of position. — imperio: cons. A. 249; H. 421, I, and f. n. 1.

II. Romulus, Romanorum rex primus.

Read Plutarch's Life of Romulus, also Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. I.

Page 3. 1. Rōmulus: though Romulus is a mythical character, the political institutions attributed to him are authentic in that they had their origin in the earliest times.

2. asylum: for cons. v. sacerdotem, p. 1, l. 5. This asylum was a grove of oak-trees lying between the two summits of the Capitoline hill.

4. uxōrēs: note the emphatic position. — ipse refers to Romulus. — habērent: see n. on cum, p. 1, l. 13.

5. quī . . . peterent: A. 317, 2, n.; 318, (2), a; H. 497, I.

8. quoque always follows the emphatic word.

9. foret: a rare form for esset, A. 119, b, n.; H. 204, 2. For the construction v. A. 308, a; 311, I, R.; H. 486, n. 2; 510, n. 2.

11. convēnere: not an infinitive.

12. videndae novae urbis: distinguish from videndī novam urbem. Remember that the gerund with a direct object is regularly used only in the genitive case and in the ablative case without a preposition. — Sabīnī: one of the early native peoples of Italy. Their principal city was Cures.

13. vēnit: A. 324; H. 518, n. 1. — conversae: pred. adj. — eō: not a pronoun.

14. signō datō: v. n. on pulsō frātre, p. 1, l. 3.

16. ob virginēs raptās: on account of the seizure of the maidens. This use of the perf. part. is a very common idiom, v. A. 292, a; H. 549, n. 2.

18. Rōmae: cf. alveō, p. 1, l. 7. — adpropinquārent: cons.?

19. petītum: v. A. 302, R.; H. 546.

20. Hūius pater: Her father. Remember that the Latin demonstrative pronouns are often best translated in English by the possessives and the personals. — arci: cf. Rōmae above.

22. perdūxisset: if she would lead, not had led. This word and gererent, in the next sentence, illustrate a very common use of the subjunctive known as implied or informal ind. disc. Tatius' words to Tarpeia are: "Tibi optiōnem mūneris dabō, sī exercitum meum in Capitōlium perdūxeris." She replies, "Date id quod in sinistris manibus geritis." Now this conversation is reported without a formal introduction of indirect discourse; but the mood and tense of the verbs in the subordinate clauses are the same as if we had placed "Dixit," "He said," before the first sentence; and "Respondit," "She replied," before the second, v. A. 341, c; 336, 2; H. 525, 2; 528, 1.

24. Quibus: a relative is often used in Latin where good English requires a demonstrative or a personal pronoun; tr. after these had been treacherously promised.

26. prōditiō: the Capitoline hill has two summits, upon one of which stood the Capitol, upon the other the citadel. The steep wall of rock on the west side was known as the "saxum Tarpēium." From it traitors were hurled to death.

27. poenā: "Their heavy shields upon the maid they threw,
And with their splendid gifts entombed at once and slew."

Page 4. 2. Rōmānum Forum: this was a large open square between the Capitoline and Palatine hills. It was surrounded by temples, porticoes, and shops; and was used for holding courts, and public meetings of all kinds.

6. clāmitābant: bring out the force of this tense.

7. longē aliud . . . aliud: tr. one thing . . . quite another.

9. Iovī: decl. A. 60, b; H. 66, 3. — aedem: this was the temple of Jupiter Stator (the flight-stayer). It stood on the slope of the Palatine next to the arch of Titus. Its site has been recently laid bare, but of the temple itself not a vestige remains.

11. passis: perf. part. from pandō, in abl. abs. with crīnibus. Wearing the hair disheveled was one of the commonest ways of expressing sorrow.

13. conciliārunt = conciliāvērunt.

14. foedere ictō = after making (lit. striking) a treaty. The making of a treaty was accompanied by a sacrifice. The verb to strike in the above phrase is a reminder of the ancient custom, referring to the striking of the victim.

16. multō: A. 250; H. 423.

18. ageret: cf. peterent, p. 3, l. 6. — senātōrēs: the senate was an advisory body under the kings, but at an early period of the republic it became the ruling power of the state. Its numbers, too, were largely increased, and it was known collectively as "Patrēs (et) Cōnscripti," in which some say that Patrēs stands for the original number, and Cōnscripti for those that were added. See Ihne's Early Rome, Chap. VIII.

19. equitum: the order of Knights, who were originally the cavalry of the state, was based upon a property qualification of 400,000 sesterces (about $17,000). In later times the cavalry consisted almost entirely of foreigners.

20. cūriās: the people were made up of three tribes, the Ramnes, Tities, and Luceres; and each tribe was divided into ten cūriæ.

22. campō: the Campus Martius, a large plain lying outside the city walls in the bend of the Tiber, north-west of the Capitoline. It was used for large assemblies, and for all kinds of warlike and gymnastic exercises. It is now a part of the city thickly covered with buildings.

24. ablātus est: v. auferō.

25. crēditus est: personal use, A. 330, b; H. 534, I, n. 1. — fīdem fēcīt: strengthened belief. For the following dative v. A. 227, n. 2.

28. vīsum: sc. esse. — fōrmā: A. 251, a; H. 419, II, and 2, 1) — 4).

Page 5. 1. exsisterent: A. 332, 2; H. 501, I, 1. Why is the circumlocution futūrum — exsisterent used? v. A. 288, f; H. 537, 3, n. 1.

2. Quirīnus: This is a Sabine word, and the name of the Sabine god of war. Romulus was known by this name after his death and deification.

III. Numa Pompilius, Romanorum rex secundus.

Read Plutarch's Life of Numa Pompilius.

3. Successit Rōmulō Numa : note the order. The fact of the succession is more important than the person who succeeds. To Numa was ascribed much of the religion of the early Romans. — iūstitiā : cf. fōrmā, p. 4, l. 28.

4. Curibus : cf. n. on Sabīnī, p. 3, l. 12.

5. Quī cum : When he. An emphatic word or phrase in a subordinate clause is often put before the conjunction. Do not translate in that order. — Rōmam : cf. Albam, p. 2, l. 2. — vēnisset : cf. n. on reverterētur, p. 1, l. 14.

7. Vestae : cf. n. p. 1, l. 4. The worship of Vesta goes back to the very earliest times.

8. alendum : A. 294, d; 318, b; H. 544, n. 2. — virginibus : indirect object. — Flāminem : these were priests devoted to a particular deity. There were 15 of them, and each was distinguished by the name of the deity he served.

9. īnsignī veste : the flamen was dressed in a woollen robe folded double, and wore upon his head a cap called apex, which had a pointed piece of olive wood, set in a flock of wool, on its crown. — curūlī sellā : seats of this kind were originally used exclusively by the kings at Rome, but were subsequently granted as a privilege to the flamens and the curule magistrates, (consuls, censors, praetors, curule aediles, dictators, and the magister equitum). The chair could be folded like a modern camp-stool. See fig. 1, which shows how the legs were hinged for folding, and also the sella complete.

10. dīcitur : he is said.

13. fulmina : the falling of a thunderbolt was always regarded by the Romans as an omen calling for a propitiatory sacrifice. — essent prōcūranda : v. n. on esset, p. 2, l. 1.

16. aedēs : A. 79, a ; H. 132.

17. futūrum esset : v. essent prōcūranda above.

18. ancile : this was made of bronze. Upon its safety the welfare of the state was supposed to depend. — Id nē : v. n. on Quī cum, p. 5, l. 5.

FIG. 2.

20. Saliōs : (cf. salire to leap). This college of priests consisted of twelve eminent men, who yearly, in the month of March, went through the city singing and dancing. In their right hands they carried spears with which they struck the ancilia, which were suspended on a pole and carried on the shoulders of the priests' ministers. See fig. 2.

21. quī . . . custodirent : to guard. But what literally?

24. duodecim mēnsēs : the year of Romulus had but ten months and 304 days. For this, Numa substituted a year of 12 months and 355 days. The agreement between this and the solar year was made by inserting an intercalary month every two years. This arrangement continued until the reform of the calendar by Julius Caesar in 46 B.C.

25. nefastōs : these were days of ill-omen upon which legal business could not be done, nor public assemblies held. — Iānō : originally worshiped as the sun-god ; one of the oldest and most important of the Italian deities. Later he is generally viewed as god of gates, doors, and of all beginnings. He is represented with two faces, looking in opposite directions, to symbolize that the beginning or the present has to do both with the past and the future. The covered passage-way known as the temple of Janus, built near the Forum by Numa, was not closed after his time until the end of the first Punic war, 241 B.C.

Page 6. 5. sibi : A. 231 ; H. 387.

6. monitū : A. 245 ; H. 416. — ageret : cons. A. 336, 2 ; H. 524.

7. quem medium : the middle of which, v. A. 193 ; H. 440, 2, notes 1 and 2. — perennī rigābat aquā : note the order. It will often be met with in Nepos.

8. inferēbat : the imperfect indicative is used in descriptions, and to denote continued, customary, or repeated action ; cf. rigābat and erat above.

9. ita : what construction does this word suggest for the subordinate clause that is to follow? A. 319, R.; H. 500, II, n. 1. — eā = tāli.

11. quidem never stands first in a sentence. It makes the preceding word emphatic. Tr. to be sure.

12. cīvitātī : all the prepositional compounds of sum, excepting absum, take the dative.

IV. Tullus Hostilius, Romanorum rex tertius.

17. Mortuō Numā : an expression of time. — Tullus Hostilius reminds us most of Romulus. See Ihne's Early Rome, p. 77. See also Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. II.

20. Ducibus — finīrī : rem — finīrī is the subject of placuit ; ducibus is the dative after a verb of pleasing ; tr. the commanders Hostilius and Fufetius determined that, etc.

21. Erant : when a form of esse stands first, it usually means that the verb is not used as a copula, but to express being or existence.

23. quisque : note the order of the clause.

24. ictum est : cf. n. on foedere ictō, p. 4, l. 14. — eā lēge : cf. n. on quā rē, p. 1, l. 19. — ut — esset : in apposition with lēge.

Page 7. 2. ternī : distinguish from trēs and tertius.

4. increpuere : A. 324 ; H. 518, n. 1. This word probably refers to the dashing of the spears against the shields. This was followed by the drawing of the swords for the hand-to-hand combat.

7. cecidērunt : distinguish from cecidērunt.

11. erat : quia states a fact as a cause, and for that reason regularly takes the indicative.

12. singulōs : distinguish from ūnus and primus.

13. ratus : tr. thinking. — aliquantum spatī : a considerable distance.

14. pūgnātum est : do not translate literally.

15. videt : v. n. on cum, p. 1, l. 13. — ē Cūriātīs : the partitive gen., which might have been used, does not distinguish sharply from the rest as this does.

17. inclāmat: v. n. on tenet, p. 2, l. 11.

18. alterum: in an enumeration, this word is used oftener than secundus.

20. singulī: one on each side.

21. alter . . . alter: distinguish between this and alius . . . alius, v. voc. — ferōx: not fierce.

26. domum: cf. Albam, p. 2, l. 2. — Prīnceps: at the head.

27. obvia: v. voc.

29. palūdāmentō: a military cloak worn by generals and superior officers over their armor. It was wide, of fine texture, and white, scarlet, or purple. It was fastened by a brooch upon the shoulder.

30. crīnēs solvere: v. n. on passis, p. 4, l. 11. — ferōcis: cf. ferōx above. Is the meaning the same?

Page 8. 4. oblīta: v. A. 219; H. 406, II. — Sic—Rōmāna: tr. thus perish every Roman woman who, etc. On eat v. A. 267; H. 484, I.

6. Atrōx: note its emphatic position.

7. in iūs: to court—iūdicēs: this was the council of two (Duūmvirī perduellīōnis) appointed to try persons accused of the murder of a Roman.

8. līctor: a public officer attached to the service of certain Roman magistrates, whom he preceded whenever they went abroad. The king had twelve of these, who carried out his judicial decrees. See fig. 3.

FIG. 3.

9. prōvocāvit: the right of appeal to the people from the decision of a magistrate was an ancient right belonging to Roman citizens. This right continued, with few interruptions, until the time of the empire.

12. nē — faceret: in direct disc. = nōlīte mē, quem paulō ante cum ēgregiā stirpe cōspēxistis, orbem liberis facere. Note carefully the changes in construction.

13. liberis: A. 243, d; H. 414, III.

14. Nōn tulit: could not resist.

18. quod: and this. Latin often uses a relative where English requires a conjunction and a demonstrative, or a conjunction and a personal pronoun.

19. tigillum sorōrium: with reference to this Livy, the historian, says, "Id hodiē quoque pūblicē semper refectum manet," and the venerable relic was pointed out in his day, in the first century A.D.

22. finisset: A. 321; H. 516.

23. Vēientēs: Veii was 12 miles north of Rome. — Fīdēnātēs: Fīdēna was on the left bank of the Tiber about a mile N.E. of Rome.

26. Quā rē Tullus intellēctā: tr. when Tullus perceived this; v. n. on quod above, l. 18.

27. suō: emphatic position.

28. Quō audītō: cf. Quā rē, etc. above, l. 26.

29. Posterō diē Mettius: v. n. on Ea rēs, p. 2, l. 10.

30. iūssū: cf. monitū, p. 6, l. 6. — quadrīgīs: abl. of means. — in diversa = in diversās partēs.

Page 9. 4. quō: this conj. is used with a comparative to express purpose.

9. militiae quam domī: A. 258, 4, 2, d; H. 426, 2.

11. fractī: with sunt.

12. ut: v. n. on ut, p. 1, l. 10.

13. Memorant, etc.: Livy (Bk. I, 31, § 8) says that this was done by Jupiter, angry because Tullus improperly tried to imitate Numa in performing sacred rites.

V. Ancus Marcius, Romanorum rex quartus.

"The similarity apparent between Romulus and Tullus Hostilius has its counterpart in the stories of Numa and Ancus. The latter is evidently the shadow of the former." Ihne's Early Rome, p. 77.

19. sustulerant: v. tollō.

21. indiceret: in reference to an anticipated or intended action antequam and priusquam are always followed by the subjunctive.

22. quī rēs repeteret: to demand satisfaction. — lēgātum: this was the fētiālis, one of a college of priests instituted by Numa, who acted as heralds to hostile states in carrying declarations of war and in concluding treaties of peace. They hurled a bloody spear across the hostile frontier when declaring war.

24. capite vėlātō: the Roman always veiled his head in making prayer or sacrifice.

"Ere yet you light your altars, spread
A purple covering o'er your head,
Lest sudden bursting on your sight
Some hostile presence mar the rite.
Thus worship you, and thus your train,
And sons unborn the rite retain."

VERGIL, Aen. iii. 405-9. Conington's Translation.

Page 10. 2. ēmittit: this spear was tipped with iron or charred at the end and smeared with blood, emblematic of fire and slaughter.

4. belli indicendī: would bellum indicendī be good Latin? — iūs fētiāle: of interest as a beginning of international law.

5. Lēgātō has repetentī in agreement with it and depends on respōnsum est. — superbē respōnsum est: a haughty reply was given.

6. hōc: this refers to what precedes. Usually it refers to what follows.

8. cīvēs: some historians believe that these were the original Roman plebeians or common people.

9. autem: remember that this word has no strong adversative force, and often merely continues the narrative. — tantā hominum multitūdine: notice the order, which is very common in Latin.

10. fierent: v. n. on cum, p. I, l. 13. — carcerem: this is situated on the slope of the Capitoline and overlooks the Forum. The dungeon below was used for executions and was called the Tulliānum. It is still in a good state of preservation. See fig. 4.

FIG. 4.

11. audāciae: the objective genitive is often best translated by for. A. 217; H. 396, III.

12. urbī: A. 228, 225, d; H. 384, II, 2, n. — ponte subliciō: the oldest and most famous bridge at Rome. Many noteworthy events are connected with it, and it was so sacred that no repairs could be made to it without previous sacrifice. It was several times rebuilt, and was still in existence in our era.

13. Tiberī: decl. v. A. 56, a, 1; 57, a, 1; H. 62, II, 2. — urbī: A. 248, a, R.; H. 385, II, 4, 3).

14. Ōstiam: 16 mi. fr. Rome. At one time it was an important and flourishing seaport. After the time of Trajan (98–117 A.D.) it was gradually abandoned for a better harbor on the right arm of the Tiber. The ruins of Ostia are between two and three miles from the coast, owing to the accumulation of sand brought down by the river.

VI. Lucius Tarquinius Priscus, Romanorum rex quintus.

The latter part of the history of the kings is as fabulous as the first. The stories of the Tarquins and of Servius Tullius are full of arbitrary fiction. They seem, however, to point to an Etruscan dominion over Latium. See Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. III, Ihne's Early Rome, p. 79.

19. haec: cf. n. on hōc, l. 6.

20. advenienti: sc. eī. — carpentum: v. fig. 7.

21. cui: cf. alveō, p. 1, l. 7.

23. perīta: what adjectives take the gen.? A. 218, a, b; H. 399, I, 1, 2, 3, II.

24. virum: her husband. — excelsa et alta: the neuter of adjectives is often used substantively.

Page 11. 3. relictus: i.e. by will. — ita: omit in translation.

4. adeptus esset: the object is understood from rēgnum. For cons. v. A. 312; H. 513, II, and n. 1.

5. Circum Māximum: between the Palatine and Aventine hills. Scarcely a vestige now remains. Its length was 1800 ft., its breadth 350 ft., and its seating capacity 150,000. For vivid description of the ancient circus read Bulwer's Last Days of Pompeii, Bk. V, Chaps. II, IV; Wallace's Ben-Hur, Chaps. XII–XIV.

6. triumphāvit: a grand military procession in which a victorious general rode through the city in a four-horse chariot, followed by his troops and the spoils of war. Read Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome, Prophecy of Capys, XXVII-XXX; also Ware's Zenobia, pp. 276-280.

8. ut ferunt: as they say. A common phrase.

10. id fieri, etc.: in dir. disc. id fieri nōn potest, nisi avēs addixerint. Account for changes in mode and tense.

11. in experimentum: to make a trial.

12. posset: cf. n. on esset, p. 2, l. 1. So also possem below, l. 15. — concēpisset: cf. n. on perdūxisset, p. 3, l. 22.

16. secuisse: sc. eam. This stone was kept as a relic. A veiled statue of Accius stood in the Comitium.

17. percussisset: cf. n. on erat, p. 7, l. 11. — praetexta: the toga praetexta, a white garment derived from the Etruscans, ornamented with a wide purple border, and worn with the bullā by free-born children of both sexes, and by the chief magistrates. It was laid aside at the age of sixteen.

18. bullā: an ornament usually of gold, of globular shape, containing an amulet. It was worn about the neck by Roman children of noble family and laid aside with the praetexta. It was then consecrated to the household gods and hung up over the hearth. See fig. 5. — dōnāvit: as in English we can say either "to present some one with something" or "to present something to some one," so Latin says, "aliquem aliquō dōnāre" or "aliquid alicui dōnāre," cf. n. on urbī, p. 10, l. 12.

FIG. 5.

22. Ex pāstōribus: the usual construction with numerals instead of the partitive genitive.

24. Quōrum clāmor: v. n. on quī cum, p. 5, l. 5.

29. ēlātam . . . dēicēcit: v. n. on armātis . . . properāvit, p. 2, l. 2.

VII. Servius Tullius, Romanorum rex sextus.

See Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. IV.

The reign of Servius Tullius is as full of marvels as that of his predecessors. His birth is as miraculous as that of Romulus. He is the author of social order like Numa, but he also introduces a military organization, wherein he reminds us of Romulus. His constitution, adapted to the changing conditions of the times, lasted to the end of the republic. See Ihne's Early Rome, pp. 78-80.

4. visū ēventūque : lit. in respect to the seeing and the outcoming, tr. in its appearance and its consequences, A. 303; H. 547.

7. haud secus ac : just like (lit. not otherwise than). To deny something instead of affirming its opposite is called litotes.

8. Is postquam : cf. Quī cum above, l. 2. — adolēvit : cf. vēnit, p. 3, l. 13.

9. quōdam : quīdam is the nearest approach in Latin to the English indefinite article.

10. sēgnius : with too little spirit.

11. signum : i.e. the eagle, the principal standard of the legion. See fig. 6. To lose it was considered a great disgrace.

16. aedium : cf. aedēs, p. 5, l. 16.

18. dictō audientēs : this, being an expression meaning to obey, is followed by the dative.

22. mūrū : the wall of Servius can still be traced. — cēnsū : this refers to the registration of all Roman citizens in six classes for civil and military purposes. These classes were based upon a property qualification and contained altogether 193 centuries. Each century had one vote, the classes voting in order beginning with the first, or wealthiest. The number of centuries was so divided among the classes as to give the political control to the rich. See article Comitia, Smith's Dict. of Antiquities and Gow's Companion to School Classics, pp. 200-202.

24. aliquod urbī decus: notice the order and cf. summam eī dignitātem, l. 6.

25. Ephesiae: Ephesus is in Asia Minor on the coast of Ionia. Its Diana temple was one of the seven wonders of the world, v. Acts xix. 24, etc.

Page 13. 2. bōs: decl. v. A. 60, b; 61; H. 66. — māgnitūdinis: cons. A. 215 and n.; H. 396, V; 419, 2. Cf. augustiore fōrmā, p. 4, l. 28, and see note.

3. nāta: sc. esse. — datum: sc. esse.

5. immolāset: in dir. disc. is populus summam imperī habēbit cūius cīvis bovem illam Diānae immolāverit. Explain modes.

7. eum: does this word refer to the Latin or to the priest?

8. Latinus dum: cf. quī cum, p. 5, l. 5. — dēscendit: cf. n. on tenet, p. 2, l. 11.

11. Servius Tullius: subject of what verb? — alteram ferōcem, mītem alteram: and ferōcem mīti, mītem ferōci. Note the order and see A. 344, f. and n.; H. 562.

15. seu . . . seu: whether . . . or allows a choice between alternatives.

18. contendit: cf. dēscendit above, l. 8.

20. carpentō: a two-wheeled carriage with an awning over it, and curtains in front of it, usually drawn by mules, and used from remote antiquity by women of distinction. See fig. 7.

21. prīma salūtāvit: was the first to salute.

24. super ipsum corpus: right over the body.

FIG. 7.

VIII Tarquinius Superbus, Romanorum rex septimus et ultimus.

See Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. V; Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome, The Battle of Lake Regillus.

Page 14. 3. Gabiōs: an ancient city in Latium. The story of the reduction of Gabii may have been borrowed from Greek sources. Herodotus (III, 153-160) tells the same story of Zopyrus, a noble Persian by whose artifice Darius took Babylon.—in potestātem: to a state of subjection.

10. scīscitātum: cf. petitum, p. 3, l. 19.—quidnam: -nam adds emphasis, e.g. quid=what, quidnam=what in the world; so ubi and ubinam, etc.—vellet: cf. esset, p. 2, l. 1, and note.

11. dēliberābundus: A. 164, p; H. 333, 1.

14. exspectandō: abl. of ger. expressing cause.—Gabiōs: cf. n. on Albam, p. 2, l. 2.

18. Ardeam: the ancient capital of the Rutuli, 18 miles from Rome.

20. apud followed by a pronoun or a proper name means 'at the house of,' 'with'; with names of authors, 'in the works of.'

22. placuit: this verb is often used impersonally with an infinitive for subject in the sense of to resolve or determine; tr. they determined to try the matter; lit. to try was pleasing (to them).

25. lānae dēditam:

FIG. 8.

"They at a task eternal their hands religiously plying,
Held in the left on high, with wool enfolded, a distaff, Delicate fibres wherefrom, drawn down, were shaped by the right hand, Shaped by fingers up-turned—but the down-turned thumb set a-whirling, Poised with perfected whorl, the industrious shaft of the spindle.
Still, as they span, as they span, was the tooth kept nipping and smoothing, Close at their feet, meanwhile, were woven baskets of wicker, Guarding the soft white balls of the wool resplendent within them."

4. occīdit : distinguish from occidit. — in expresses purpose, to bring about, for.

5. rēgum : plural because referring to the whole royal family.

7. annālibus : the oldest historical records among the Romans were called annālēs librī = year books. They were written on white boards.

9. rēgem : cons. A. 237, d; H. 372.

10. ōrācula : these were the revelations made by the gods to men.

11. nimium atque immēsum : sc. pretium, tr. the woman asked an excessive and in fact (atque) enormous price.

12. quasi, etc. : as if the old woman were in her dotage.

15. pretiō : A. 252; H. 422.

17. dubiō : A. 261, b, n.; H. 437, 2.

18. ut — emat : in apposition with id.

21. neglegendam : sc. esse.

23. Sed eam mulierem : emphatic, to change the thought from the books to the woman; tr. freely, but as for that woman, it is certain, etc.

24. locī : A. 216, 4; H. 397, 4.

25. Sibyllinī : these prophecies were probably written in Greek verse. Niebuhr supposes them to have come from Ionia, but they were more probably derived from the Greek city Cumae in Campania. The palm leaves, upon which the prophecies were written, were kept in a stone chest, and one was drawn out at random for guidance in case of prodigies or calamities. When the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus was destroyed by fire, B.C. 82, the Sibylline books perished; but a fresh collection was made by sending ambassadors to various towns in Italy, Greece, and Asia Minor. The early Christian writers frequently appeal to them as prophesying the Messiah.

26. Quīndecim virī : at first there were but two, next ten, finally fifteen.

IX. Horatius Cocles.

Read Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. VI; Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome, Horatius.

Page 16. 1. Etruscōrum: little is known of the Etruscans save that they are foreign in origin and language to the other peoples of Italy. They were a highly civilized and powerful nation when Rome was still in its infancy. The Romans borrowed many of their religious and political institutions from them. The last three Roman kings seem to have been Etruscans. — ad restituendōs . . . Tarquiniōs: a gerundive construction expressing purpose. This very common construction is usual only in short phrases.

2. exercitū: cons. A. 248, a, n.; H. 419, I, I), (I).

3. lāniculum: one of the hills of Rome, connected with the city by the famous sublician or pile bridge (v. note p. 10, l. 12). Ancus Marcius built a fort upon it. — Nōn umquam aliās ante: these are all adverbs, tr. never before.

4. rēs: the translation of this word must always be determined by the context. Here it = the state. — Clūsīna: adj. fr. Clūsium, Porsenna's capital.

7. Tiberī obiectō: v. n. on ob virginēs raptās, p. 3, l. 16.

9. fuisset: what form of condition? A. 308; H. 510. The conclusion paene dedit is elliptical; sc. et dedisset v. A. 308, b, n.; H. 511, I, n. 4. — Coclēs = one-eyed. Personal defects or peculiarities suggest surnames among all peoples, cf. Short, Strong, Green, etc.

11. sōlus: according to Livy he had two companions.

12. dōnec: the subj. is used with this conjunction to express purpose, doubt, or futurity. Which here?

13. ponte rescissō . . . multīs superincidentibus tēlis: the first abl. abs. expresses time, the second concession. Translate accordingly.

16. agrī: A. 216, 3; H. 397, 3.

17. eī: in his honor. — Comitiō: an open space adjoining the Forum.

X. Menenius Agrippa.

19. patrēs plēbemque: the struggle for power between the patricians and the plebeians dates from the earliest times. In the beginning the plebeians had no political or religious power whatever; but by a continual and noble struggle for five hundred years against fraud and tyranny, they finally raised themselves to an equality with the patrician classes.

20. mōntem sacrum: a solitary hill on the right bank of the Arno, three miles from Rome. It was not called sacer until later.

21. quod — tolerāret: tr. because they would not bear at the same time taxation and military service. On the use of the subjunctive cf. fīnisset, p. 8, l. 22.

Page 17. 1. discordārunt = discordāvērunt. So too cōnspirārunt.

2. nēve: the regular connective for negative purpose clauses. — datum: sc. cibum.

4. volunt: how translated? cf. tenet, p. 2, l. 4.

6. haud sēgne = ācre, v. p. 12, l. 7.

9. discordiā . . . concordiā: etymology?

11. Creāvit: sc. plēbs. — tribūnōs: the tribunes of the plebs were inviolable in person. At first clothed with scant powers, it was through them that the plebeians finally triumphed. — quī . . . dēfenderent: would ut . . . dēfenderent mean the same? A. 318, a.

15. conlātis sextantibus: by collecting coppers. The sextāns was worth about $\frac{1}{8}$ of a cent.

18. quam nōn, etc.: this clause is secondary object after docēre (A. 239, 2, c; H. 374, 2); its subject is comparātiō. — sit: cons. cf. esset, p. 2, l. 1, and note.

19. cupientī: dative after necessāria.

XI. Lucius Virginius Centurio.

Read Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome, Virginia; Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. X; James Sheridan Knowles' Virginius, a Tragedy.

20. ab urbe conditā: cf. ob virginēs raptās, p. 3, l. 16.

21. decem virī: these, known as decem virī lēgibus scribendīs, were a board of ten patricians who were appointed to draw up a code of laws. To them the whole government of the state was intrusted.—Graeciā: Livy says that an embassy was sent to Athens for the purpose of studying the famous laws of Solon.

22. Duodecim tabulīs: these were the laws of the Twelve Tables. "Unfortunately only fragments of them have come down to us. Yet these fragments are of invaluable service in the study of Roman life and manners. The documentary history of Rome may be said to begin with these laws." Ihne, Early Rome, p. 169.

23. ipsōrum: A. 197, e; H. 398, 3; 452, 4.

24. Appius Claudius: the leading man among the decem virī.

26. pretiō ac spē: tr. by the hope of reward. See n. p. 26, l. 28.

Page 18. 1. clientibus: these were a distinct class, consisting of such plebeians as appear to have been attached as hereditary dependents to certain patrician families. Each patrician had a number of these clients who looked to him for aid and protection, for which they paid in fixed dues and services.—in servitūtem: tr. as his slave, lit. for servitude.

2. vīctūrum sē = sē vīctūrum esse.

4. virginī: dat. after iniēcit.

5. tabernīs: the Roman shop usually consisted of a single room, entirely open in front, with the exception of a low wall forming a counter, and was closed at night by wooden shutters.—litterārum lūdī: schools were early established by the Romans. To these children of both sexes and of all classes were admitted.

6. esse: sc. eam. Also below after abstractūrum.

7. nī faciat, etc.: cf. note on perdūxisset, p. 3, l. 22.

8. Pavidā—concursum: tr. though the maid is dumb with terror, her servant's cries quickly cause a crowd to gather.—nūtrīcis: Roman boys and girls, when going abroad, were usually accompanied by a servant, slave, or teacher.

12. commeātū sūmptō: being granted a leave of absence.

13. cīvītās = cīvēs. — cum: at which time.

14. lacrimābundus: cf. dēliberābundus, p. 14, l. 11.

16. Neque eō sētius: nevertheless.

18. Appī: A. 40, c; H. 51, 5.

19. dolōrī: A. 227; H. 385, II. — sine: not a preposition. — ūltimum: the acc. of ūltimus used adverbially, cf. n. p. 15, l. 11.

20. cultrō: the illustration (fig. 9) is from an original discovered in a kitchen at Pompeii.

21. Tum vērō: commonly used to introduce the climax of a story.

24. tribūnōs: there had been no tribunes during the power of the decem virī.

FIG. 9. 25. sē abdicāre: a common idiom, followed by the abl. of separation.

27. mortem sibi cōnscīvit: tr. committed suicide. Appius was being reserved in prison for a more severe punishment than that inflicted on the rest.

XII. Marcus Furius Camillus.

Read Plutarch's life of Camillus, also Church's Stories from Livy, Chaps. XI-XIV; Ihne's Early Rome, Chap. XXI.

3. ambulandī grātiā: cf. militiae causā, p. 18, l. 4.

6. dēditūrī essent: A. 319, d; H. 504, 3, 2).

7. dētestātus: tr. as a present participle. The perfect participle of deponent verbs is often so used. — similem tuī: like yourself in character, cf. p. 2, l. 9.

9. cui . . . parcitur: verbs that take the dative in the active, are used impersonally in the passive and retain the dative, e.g. He spares me = mihi parcit; I am spared = mihi parcitur. — captīs urbibus: when cities are taken.

11. Vēiōs: v. n. p. 8, l. 23.

13. redūcendum: v. A. 294, d; H. 544, n. 2.

14. quibus = ut hīs, cf. quī . . . peterent, p. 3, l. 5.

15. Statim aperuērunt: "This story is condemned as a silly fiction, not only by its intrinsic improbability, but by the undoubted fact that Falerii continued for a long time afterwards to be an independent town." Ihne's Early Rome, p. 201. — magis quam = potius quam, rather than.

18. quanta fuerit: the object of indicat. — Tunc primum, etc.: the importance of these reforms in the military system of the Romans can hardly be overestimated. As regards the siege of Veii nothing can be surely ascertained beyond the bare fact that it fell into the hands of the Romans in 396 B.C. The mode of its conquest is hidden in a cloud of fables.

FIG. 10.

19. facta: sc. sunt. — hiemātum: sc. est. The verb is impersonal. — sub pellibus = in tents, so called because in the winter the canvas was covered with skins. See fig. 10.

21. datum: sc. est; so with adāctus, and perāctum below. — nisi captā urbe: the abl. abs. is sometimes used with nisi, when a negative precedes, to point out an exception.

25. Postmodum datum: tr. afterwards a charge was brought against Camillus. But what literally? A. 233, a; H. 390, I.

26. triumphāset: cf. finisset, p. 8, l. 22. Also n. p. 11, l. 6. — diē: on gender v. A. 73; H. 123.

27. Ardeam: cf. n. p. 14, l. 18.

Page 20. 2. sibi: ind. obj. of fieret. — primō quōque tempore: at the very first opportunity.

3. suī: an objective gen. modifying dēsiderium; tr. for him — facerent: sc. dīi.

4. Senonēs: this tribe settled in northern Italy about 400 B.C.

8. Ex hīs lēgātis ūnus: cf. n. p. 11, l. 22. — contrā iūs gentium: international law began with the Romans, cf. n. p. 10, l. 4.

12. Alliam: now a nameless brook running into the Tiber, about eleven miles from Rome. — ante — Sextilēs = July 18. A. 376, a-e; H. 641-644. The year was 390.

13. nefastōs: sc. dies. The Romans numbered 40,000; the Gauls 70,000. The wild and furious onslaught of the Gauls dismayed the Romans, who fled in a panic and were slain by the thousand. The Romans never forgot the Allia, and thenceforth forever the Gaul was the most dreaded foe.

19. obstinātō ad mortem animō: tr. determined to die. — expectābant: note how finely the continuance of a past action is brought out by the imperfect tense.

21. sellis: v. fig. 1, and note. The dat. is due to in in composition.

24. praetextātōs: v. note on praetexta, p. 11, l. 17. — ōrnātū: abl. of specification; so māiestāte.

25. Ad quōs cum: cf. n. on Quī cum, p. 5, l. 5; tr. with conversī.

27. Gallō: tr. as if a gen. The Latin idiom, however, requires the acc. and dat. after incussisse. — barbam is the object of hermulcentī, which agrees with Gallō.

Page 21. 3. nocte sublūstrī: abl. absolute. — sublevantēs — aliōs: tr. helping each other in turn by pushing and pulling; tr. also literally.

5. canēs: note the order. An emphatic word or a phrase is placed between nē and quidem.

7. quibus: abl. of separation. The preposition ā, ab is generally found after abstineō.

8. erant: we expect to find the indicative after quia, because its clause assigns a fact as a cause. How is it with quod? — quae rēs: rēs is the antecedent of quae, and in apposition with the previous sentence. In such a case the antecedent is regularly incorporated within the relative clause; tr. a circumstance which.

10. Mānlius: from this heroic deed he received the surname Capitōlinus.

FIG. 11.

13. cūius cāsus cum: cf. ad quōs cum above. The watchfulness of the goose was proverbial among the Romans. One was often kept to guard the house, and it was believed to be more vigilant than a dog.

15. placuit: cf. n. p. 14, l. 22.

OVID, Met. xi. 598-9.

21. pretiō: abl. of means. — mille: sc. librīs = pounds, in apposition with pretiō.

23. iniqua: excessive, i.e. more than 1000.

25. Rōmānī exercitūs: the one which had been defeated at the Allia.

28. nūntius: cf. n. p. 21, l. 5, canēs.

29. triumphāns: cf. n. on triumphāvit, p. 11, l. 6.

30. ingressus: sc. est.

3. Vēiōs: cf. p. 8, l. 23.

6. ōmen: subj. of mōvit.

7. manipulāribus: a legion consisted of thirty maniples; a manipule of two centuries; each century was led by a centurion. The number of men in a legion varied at different periods from four to six thousand.—signifer: the annexed illustration is from Trajan's column in Rome. See also fig. 6.

8. Quā vōce audītā: tr. on hearing these words.

9. ōmen: it was not at all unusual for the Romans to attach a peculiar and oracular significance to a chance remark, as in this case. To accept an omen was to consider it favorable; tr. in this order: et senātus conclāmāvit sē accipere ōmen.

12. obstrictōs: sc. eōs. Tr. obstrictōs aere aliēnō, debtors. — crīmine — damnātus: convicted on the charge of aspiring to the throne. To secure his conviction it is said that he had to be tried in a spot whence the Capitol, the scene of his heroism, could not be seen.

13. Tarpēiō: v. n. on prōditiō, p. 3, l. 26.

FIG. 12.

XIII. Spurius Postumius.

Read Church's Stories from Livy, Chap. XVII.

15. Samnītēs: they lived to the east and south of Latium and Campania, and were distinguished for their bravery and their love of freedom. The Romans found them the most formidable enemies whom they had yet encountered in Italy. The war, begun in 343 B.C., was continued with but few interruptions for fifty-three years.

16. in auxilium vocāti: called upon for assistance.

17. orbe: cons? — Campāniae: appositional gen., so we say 'the state of New York.'

18. Nihil: sc. est. Forms of sum are often omitted.

19. certāmen: the scene of the contest.

21. Cāiēta: on the coast of Latium, near Campania. It is one of the oldest cities in Italy. Its modern name is Gaeta, and it is an important fortification. — Misēnum: formerly the station of the Roman fleet. — Bāiae: between Misenum and Puteoli; a famous and much-visited watering-place. —

"Your grace, sweet Muses, shields me still On Sabine heights, or lets me range
Where cool Praeneste, Tibur's hill,
Or liquid Baiae proffers change."

HOR. Od. iii. 4.

Lucrinus: a lake near to Baiae, celebrated for its oyster beds.

22. Avernus: a lake near Naples filling the crater of an extinct volcano. It was supposed to communicate with the lower world. — vītibus: the wines of Campania were famous, especially the Falernian, Massic, and Formian.

"—— these cups of mine
Falernum's bounty ne'er has blessed,
Nor Formian vine.

HOR. Od. i. 20.

24. ad: near.

25. Pompēiī: read Bulwer's Last Days of Pompeii.

26. Capua: consult the map for the localities above mentioned. The author has not exaggerated the beauties of Campania.

27. Carthāgine: the largest city in northern Africa, and for many years the rival of Rome for the mastery of the world.

Page 23. 3. pūgnātum est: cf. n. p. 7, l. 14. So ventum est.

4. Spurius Postumius cōsul: of what is it the subject? cf. n. p. 2, l. 10.

7. quī dīcerent: v. n. p. 20, l. 7.

9. ferrent: cf. dēditūrī essent, p. 19, l. 6.

10. altera: distinguish between alter and alius in meaning.

11. breviōrem: sc. viam.

12. quī locus: tr. in a place which.

13. Furculae Caudinae: the Caudine Forks, a narrow ravine near Caudium, a city in Samnium.

16. intuentēs aliī aliōs: looking at one another.

19. tum . . . tum: at one time . . . at another.

21. faciendum esset: v. n. p. 2, l. 1. So placēret below, l. 23.

22. accītum: who had been sent for.

29. iugum: this was formed by two spears stuck in the ground, with another fastened transversely over their tops. To pass under the yoke was a disgrace worse than death.

30. palūdāmenta: v. n. p. 7, l. 29. — cōsulibus: the dat., A. 229; H. 385, 2. — dētracta: sc. sunt, so too with missi.

Page 24. 1. primī . . . missī: were the first to be sent. Distinguish this use of the adj. primus from that of the adv. primum, and primō.

3. Rōmānis: dat. with adj. tristior. — ipsa: tr. very.

4. fugere: here transitive = to shun.

6. quisque: in partitive app. with the subj. of abdidērunt. Note its position. In this idiom it regularly follows the poss. pro. referring to the subj. — aedēs: cf. n. p. 5, l. 16.

7. sententiam dīcere: any magistrate, except aedile or quaestor, might summon the senate. The presiding officer was the magistrate who called the meeting. After the president had stated the matter of business, he might call for an immediate vote, or he might invite discussion. In the latter case he called upon the members to speak (sententiam dicere) in order of precedence, beginning with the princeps senātūs.

10. ēius iniūssū: without its authority. — facta est: subject spōnsiō. — ex eā: sc. spōnsiōne; tr. by that agreement.

12. saeviant: do not translate as if it were saeviunt.

13. animī: not mind.

15. fētiālibus: v. n. on lēgātum, p. 9, l. 22.

16. eī: cf. cōsulibus above. — dētracta: sc. est.

18. māiestātis: v. n. on audāciae, p. 10, l. 11. — quīn: learn the following principal uses:—

quīn	{	I. Principal Clauses.	{ a. Interrog. = why not? b. Corroborative = indeed, nay, verily, etc.
		II. Subordinate Clauses — used after negative sentences to express result.

21. fētiālis: gen.

24. violātum: sc. esse. It is connected with esse in the preceding line by et understood. To do violence to a fetial legate was sure to lead to war. — eō: abl. of degree.

25. Accepta — rediit: note the chiasmic order, and how well the emphasis is brought out.

Pontius, the noble Samnite, continued to fight the battles of his country for yet many years. Often victorious, he was finally defeated and taken prisoner. He was led in chains in the triumph of his victor, and was then beheaded; an act which Niebuhr characterizes as “the greatest stain in the Roman annals.”

XIV. Publius Valerius Laevinus, et Pyrrhus, rex Epiri.

Read Plutarch's Life of Pyrrhus.

Page 25. 1. Tarentīnis: Tarentum was a large city in souther Italy on a gulf of the same name, now Taranto. — iniūriam: v. n.

on violātum, p. 24, l. 24. — fēcissent: subj. because assigned as the reason of the Romans, not that of the author.

2. Pyrrhum: a noble king, and one of the greatest generals of antiquity. — Ēpirī: a district in northern Greece, on the west coast.

3. auxilium: cons. A. 239, 2, c; H. 374. — quī: refers to Pyrrhum.

4. Achillis: many Greek and some Roman families traced their ancestry back to the heroes of the Trojan war, of all of whom Achilles was the most glorious.

5. primum: v. n. on prīmī, p. 24, l. 1.

7. quī cum: v. n. p. 5, l. 5.

8. exercitum: subj. of ostendī, after which sc. eīs.

9. dīmittī: sc. eōs as subject. — quaecumque: an indefinite relative = omnia quae.

10. agerentur: v. n. on perdūxisset, p. 3, l. 22. — commissā pūgnā: for tr. v. n. on pulsō frātre, p. 1, l. 3.

11. elephantōs: elephants frequently figure in the history of the wars of the Persians, Greeks, and Romans, though at this time the Romans were unacquainted with them.

12. aciem: distinguish from exercitus, and agmen.

16. sēcum — abripiebant: give an idiomatic translation.

19. occisōs: sc. Rōmānōs. — adversō volnere: with wounds in front.

22. potuisse = potuī of dir. disc. A. 308, c; H. 511, 1, n. 3.

23. Quid mihi cum tālī victōriā: of what advantage is such a victory to me? sc. est, which is often omitted in colloquial questions and in exclamations.

24. ubi = when (the result is that) v. A. 319, 2; H. 500, 1.

27. ferō ignīque: with fire and sword. The Latin inverts the English order, cf. caede atque incendiis, Cic. Cat. I, § 3. — lapidem: C. Gracchus (died 121 B.C.) introduced the practice of marking the distance from Rome on the great highways by means of mile-stones (milliaria) at intervals of 1000 Roman paces. Of course there were none at the time of Pyrrhus. See fig. 13.

FIG. 13.

Page 26. 1. obviam vēnit: came to meet, an expression followed by the dat.

2. Quō vīsō: at the sight of this. — sibi . . . Herculī: datives of possessor with esse, of which fortūnam is the subj. — quam: as.

3. hydram: one of the twelve labors of the Greek hero Hercules was to kill the dragon or hydra which dwelt in the marshes of Lerna near Argos. It had nine heads, and as often as one was cut off, two new ones grew in its stead. Hercules finally killed it by burning the stumps where the heads had been.

8. cōgnōscerent: this verb means to learn in the present system and to know, i.e. to have learned, in the perfect.

10. clēmētia: subj. of solet.

12. dominum: the Tarentines found to their sorrow that, if they would have the help of Pyrrhus, they must give up their idle and luxurious living, and conform to the strictness of military discipline.

14. Neque deerant: v. n. on haud secus ac, p. 12, l. 7. — arcessīti: sc. sunt.

15. quod — locūtī essent: observe that the charge was true, but, as it is given on the authority of the accusers, and not on that of the author, the subj. is used.

16. perīculum: observe the emphasis from its position.

18. pervēnissent: v. n. on perdūxisset, p. 3, l. 22.

20. dictūrī fuimus: we might have expected dixissēmus, but bear in mind that the periphrastic forms are regularly in the ind. in the conclusion of conditional sentences.

21. vīnī: pred. gen. of possession after vidērī.

24. pācem — facere: this infinitive clause is the subj. of fore (futūrum esse), and glōriōsum is pred. adj. agreeing with it.

25. Cīneam: nom. Cīneās; for decl. v. A. 37; H. 50.

27. valēbat: multum valēre is an idiom = to be very influential; cf. plūrimum posse.

28. vī et armīs: tr. by force of arms. The use of two nouns and a conjunction instead of a noun with a gen. or with an adj. is known as hendiadys. Cf. pretiō ac spē, p. 17, l. 26.

7. mihi: dat. of possessor.

8. ille: sc. inquit. Verbs of saying are often omitted when they can be readily supplied from the context. — Quid deinde: sc. āctūrus es.

9. nōs: obj. of dabimus.

10. ōtīō: cons. A. 249; H. 421, I. — quōminus: regularly introduces a subj. clause of purpose after verbs of hindering.

11. istō: to what person does istō refer as distinguished from hic and ille? Make the person clear in translating.

12. Rōmam: note the order.

17. condiciōnum: sc. pācis.

18. sententia: v. n. sententiam dicere, p. 24, l. 7.

19. Appius Claudius: one of the greatest of the noble Claudian gens. He built the great Appian aqueduct, and began the famous Appian Way, which runs from Rome to Capua; he was no less distinguished as a soldier, and was the earliest Roman writer in prose and verse whose name has come down to us. — ob — solitus: tr. by a rel. cl.

21. lecticā: a palanquin introduced into Italy from the East. It was made in various sizes and styles and carried by from two to eight slaves. At first it was used only by the sick and by women, but later it was a common vehicle for pleasure, business, or travel. See fig. 14.

22. itaque — est: and so the senate replied to Pyrrhus. What is the subject of respōsum est?

FIG. 14.

23. excessisset: what in dir. disc.?

26. potuissent: why subjunctive? cf. pervēnissent, p. 26, l. 18. — ante . . . quam si: unless, or until; but what literally taking ante as an adverb? v. A. 262; H. 520, f. n. 1.

27. reverti depends on iussērunt. — binūm = binōrum. How different in sense from duōrum?

29. quālem Rōmam comperisset: tr. what kind of city he had found Rome to be.

31. vērō: used to bring in something additional, of more weight and importance than what precedes. — vīsum: agrees with senātum and is understood with urbem.

XV. Gaius Fabricius.

Page 28. 1. Ex lēgātis: among the ambassadors.

2. C. Fabricius: a typical Roman of the old style. He is often referred to by later writers as a model citizen. — Cūius: his. It modifies nōmen.

3. ut: tr. as, and sc. that referring to nōmen. The English redundant 'that' in the phrase 'that of' is never expressed in Latin.

5. cēteris: distinguish between cēterī and aliī.

6. quae omnia: all of which. Would omnia quōrum be good Latin? A. 216, e; H. 397, 2, n.

16. vellet = be willing.

17. etiam: usually precedes the emphatic word.

18. vīs: fr. volō.

19. sīn vērō malum: sc. virum mē iudicās.

21. ablātā: v. auferō.

24. sī — necātūrum: what form of condition? Put into dir. disc.

25. vinctum redūcī: cf. n. on armātis . . . properāvit, p. 2, l. 2; vinctum not fr. vincō.

27. spopondisset: subordinate clause, ind. disc.

Page 29. 2. honestāte: not honesty. Make it a general rule not to translate a Latin word by the English word it most resembles.

3. apud Pyrrhum: v. n. on apud, p. 14, l. 20.

4. quendam: this word always signifies that the author has some particular person or thing in mind which he may not choose to name. In this case it was Epicurus (died 270 B.C.), the founder of the school of philosophy bearing his name. He was a great man, and of blameless and simple life. Perhaps no one has been more violently attacked by rival philosophers, and by those who had but a superficial knowledge of his doctrines.

7. hostibus: cf. n. on cui . . . parcitur, p. 19, l. 9.

8. quō: v. n. p. 9, l. 4.

9. dederint: v. n. on cum, p. 1, l. 13. This is the fut. perf. ind.

— ab—aliēnum: Eng. says 'foreign to.' What does Lat. say?

11. salinō: the abl. of material usually has ē, ex, but sometimes omits it. Salt was much used in sacrifice, hence the salt-cellar was an object of veneration, and was usually of silver even among the poorer citizens. Often it was a much-valued heirloom.—

"More happy he whose modest board
His father's well-worn silver brightens."

HOR. Od. ii. 16.

14. vērērunt: why ind.?

16. mihi: v. n. on civitatī, p. 6, l. 12.

17. hāc: v. n. on subole, p. 1, l. 4.

18. simultātem gerēbat: was on bad terms with. For force of tense v. n. on inferēbat, p. 6, l. 8.

19. ipse: i.e. Fabricius.

21. Quia . . . erat: v. n. on erant, p. 21, l. 8.

22. bellum: what war?

23. auctor fuit = studuit.

25. homō inimīcus: in app. with the subj. of fēcisset; translate by a concessive clause. Sē refers to Rufinus.

26. vērēre: used for the passive of vēndō. Distinguish from venīre. The point is that Fabricius feared the approaching war more than he did the thieving of the consul; especially since the latter, with all his faults, was still 'industrius ac bonus imperātor.'

27. postea: not post nor postquam. Distinguish carefully among these three words.—cēnsor: the censorship, instituted B.C. 443, discharged three chief duties: (1) to assess the property of each citizen; (2) to prepare the list of the senate; (3) to manage the finances of the republic. Censors were elected about every five years, and held office eighteen months.

28. quod — habēret: tr. because he had ten pounds of silver plate.

30. unde: a relative adv. introducing a result clause.

Page 30. 2. cōnlocāvit: i.e. in mātīmōnium.

4. diciōnis: cons. A. 214, c; H. 403.

7. ita means 'with this guilt on his shoulders.'

9. lacerāta: sc. est.

11. Quā: tr. this.

14. prōsperī: cons. A. 216, 3; H. 397, 3. — Ītaliā: a prep. would have been regular here.

15. īgnōbilī morte: he was struck by a heavy tile which an Argive woman threw from the house-top.

XVI. Gaius Duilius.

17. Gāius Duilius: his brilliant victory over the Carthaginians near Mylae, off the northern coast of Sicily, led the way to the successful conclusion of the first Punic war. The memory of it was perpetuated by a column which stood in the Forum, and which was adorned with the beaks of the captured ships (Columna Rōstrāta). See fig. 15. — primus: cf. n. on primī, p. 24, l. 1.

FIG. 15.

18. ā Pūnicīs: the Phoenicians excelled all other ancient peoples as mariners. Their commercial spirit carried their ships to every sea. They colonized northern Africa and Spain and, going beyond the straits, they traded north and south along the coasts of Africa and Europe. The Romans were an agricultural people and had no fondness for sea-faring.

20. excōgitāvit: note the etymology.

21. quae manūs ubi: tr. when these hooks.

22. trānsgrēdiēbātur: mark the force of the imperfect: also in dīmīcābant, l. 23.

23. ipsōrum: refers to the enemy. — comminus: see Word-Groups under MA. — Rōmānis: cf. mihi, p. 27, l. 7.

25. expūgnātae: distinguish between expūgnō and oppūgnō.

26. septirēmīs: i.e. a ship having seven banks of oars. The rest had probably five banks of oars (quīnquerēmēs), as these were commonly used for war at that period. Before the first Punic war, the Romans had only triremes (see fig. 16), and not many of them. — mersae: sc. sunt.

3. terrā: why no prep.? A. 258, f, 1; H. 425, 2. — etiam: v. n. p. 28, l. 17. — marī: v. terrā, above.

5. fūnālī: a torch made of plant fibres twisted into a rope (fūnis) and smeared with pitch. — tībicine: see fig. 17. It is taken from a painting at Herculaneum. — cēnā: the principal meal of the day taken in the afternoon or early evening.

FIG. 17.

6. Hannibal: not the great general of the second Punic war.

7. capiēbātur: was on the point of being taken.

8. At : this word serves to recall our attention emphatically to the consul.

9. potius : distinguish between this word and amplius and magis.

10. Aegātēs insulās : off the western coast of Sicily. This battle, both for the numbers engaged and for its consequences, is to be remembered as one of the great naval engagements of history.

15. hāc condiōne : abl. of cause.

XVIII. Quintus Fabius Maximus.

Read Plutarch's Life of Fabius; Arnold's Life of Hannibal.

Quintus Fabius Maximus was one of the most distinguished members of that famous Fabian gens whose history goes back to the very beginning of Rome. The most important period of his life is embraced within the years included between the dates placed at the head of this passage, though he had already been consul twice before this. In 217, in the second year of the second Punic war (218–202 B.C.), immediately after the Roman defeat at Trasimenus, he was appointed dictator against Hannibal; and for many years he was a conspicuous figure in that great struggle. He died in 203: too soon to witness Hannibal's final overthrow.

18. Hannibal: he and his father Hamilcar are among the very greatest generals of all time. — novem annōs nātus: at the age of nine years. What literally?

20. rēs: v. n. p. 16, l. 4; Quae rēs maxīmē: this incident more than anything else.

22. Saguntum: a city on the east coast of Spain, south of the Ebro river. Its site is covered with interesting ruins.

23. foederātam: such states were independent, but could look to Rome for help in time of need and were expected to furnish in return troops and supplies. They did not possess Roman citizenship.

26. togā: the principal outer garment of the Romans, derived from the Etruscans. It was usually of white wool. The sinus of the toga was the fold on the breast. In this articles were often carried. A Roman had no pocket. A second sinus appears farther down (v. fig. 18).

4. eīsdem: sc. animīs.

6. superātis—iugīs: his march across the Alps filled the Romans with astonishment and dismay. It is one of the great events in military history. What general in modern times did the same?

7. Pūblium Scīpiōnem: father of the great Africānus. — Ticīnum: this and the Trebia are tributaries of the Po. The greatest of these victories was that over Flaminius at lake Trasumenus in north-eastern Etruria, 217 B.C.

11. dictātor: an officer having autocratic power who was appointed whenever great and unusual danger threatened the state. He held office for but six months. — morā: the Fabian tactics were to avoid a decisive engagement and to weaken Hannibal by cutting off his supplies and harassing his rear and outposts.

14. recēdere ab ancipitī discrimine: tr. to decline a hazardous engagement.

15. tuērī: note the emphasis.

16. laudem: many writers glorify the deeds of Fabius. Ennius (239 B.C.), the father of Latin poetry, says of him:

"T was one man's courage saved the state,
By wise delay. The people's frown
He scorned, for safety dared to wait.
The years still glorify his crown."

18. castrīs: the locative abl. is often used without a preposition, when the idea of cause, manner, or means is combined with that of place.

19. quantum: adverbial acc. — cōgeret: informal ind. disc., v. n. p. 3, l. 22.

20. occāsiōnī: v. n. p. 6, l. 12. — reī bene gerendae: cf. rē male gestā, p. 31, l. 20. — qua: A. 105, d; H. 190, i; sc. occāsiō.

5. ut — invidiam: that he might make Fabius unpopular among his countrymen.

12. vocitābant: fr. vocitō, the intensive or iterative form of vocō, expressing emphasis and repetition, v. Word-Groups under VOC-. — magister equitum: this was an officer appointed by the dictator to act as his lieutenant. He represented the dictator in his absence and had command of the cavalry in battle.

13. illum, etc. : ind. disc. depending upon the idea of saying in crīminandō.

14. quō : cf. n. p. 9, l. 4.

15. mīrātur : v. n. on dum, p. 2, l. 11.

18. Līvius Salinātor : Cicero tells this anecdote of him in his "Dē Senectūte," but he is mistaken in the man. It was M. Livius Macatus that lost Tarentum, and gave efficient service from the citadel in its recovery.

19. caedī : cons.?

21. Leve dictū : trifling. A. 303 ; H. 547, I, 2.

23. mulierculae : what kind of a gen.? Mark the force of the suffix.

26. vigiliā : the night was divided into four watches of three hours each from sunset to sunrise.

3. eādem: with arte.

6. retinuisset: why subjunctive? Bring out the force of the mood in your translation.

8. nisi — *recēpisse*m: form of condition? Sc. eam arcem for obj. of the verbs.

10. lēgātus: a general officer attached to the army and to the governors of provinces, who acted both in a military and civil capacity; his duty being to advise and assist his superiors in their plans and operations, as well as to act in their stead whenever occasion required. A general could nominate his lēgātus, but the choice had to be ratified by the senate.

12. līctōribus: v. n. p. 8, l. 8.

16. proximum līctōrem: the lictors walked in single file and the one nearest the magistrate was called proximus lictor.

19. num in indirect questions means whether and does not imply a negative answer.

21. dīgnus: the Romans honored Fabius till the last, and each citizen contributed something to his funeral as a farewell offering of gratitude. The fame of his last years was obscured by the rising glory of Scipio, who was the exact opposite of Fabius in disposition. Fabius never ceased to warn the Romans against the aggressive policy of his rival, and appears to have been very jealous of him. — cautior quam prōmptior: more wary than quick. The Latin uses the comparative in both adjectives.

23. eī bellō: dat. with apta.

24. quīn: v. n. p. 24, l. 18.

25. ut: v. n. p. 1, l. 10.

28. nē — posset: substantive clause of negative purpose in apposition with id.

XIX. Aemilius Paulus et Terentius Varro.

The events of the second Punic war, up to the time that Fabius was made dictator (217 B.C.), have been briefly summarized in the preceding selection (p. 33, l. 6-9). After the Roman defeat at Lake Trasumenus, Hannibal made his way into southern Italy, passing through Umbria and Picenum into Campania, and thence into Apulia. In this neighborhood he spent the summer and the following winter, the tactics of Fabius preventing any decisive action. The Romans made great preparations for the year 216. They raised a splendid army; but the consuls, Paulus the patrician and Varro the plebeian, represented opposing factions and held opposing views as to the conduct of the war. Their differences foreshadowed defeat.

6. Capitōliō: the Capitoline hill has two summits; on one of them stood the Arx, or citadel, upon the other the famous temple constructed by the last Tarquin in honor of Jupiter, Juno, and Minerva. To the Romans it was the symbol of the strength and stability of the state. When Horace wished to declare his immortality he said:

“ Ever new
My after fame shall grow while pontiffs climb,
With silent maids, the Capitolian height.”

8. eīdem: ind. obj. of dedēre. — vīctōriā: cons.?

9. Mora: what Hannibal might have gained by an immediate advance upon Rome has always been an interesting but fruitless field for speculation. — diēi: duration of time is expressed by the gen. with nouns, by the acc. with verbs. — salūtī, . . . urbī: cf. p. 34, l. 20.

13. Capuam Hannibalī Cannās: in judging of the truth of this statement we must not forget that Hannibal's army remained superior in the field, and that he did not leave Italy until twelve years after.

16. quīn: v. n. p. 24, l. 18.

17. obviam īrent: cf. obviam vēnit, p. 26, l. 1.

19. quī: v. n. on quod, p. 8, l. 18. — sī . . . fuisset, . . . dedisset: note the form of condition.

20. nōn — approbāvit: moreover he showed by the rest of his life that he had survived the battle, not from love of life, but from love of his country.

22. barbam — submīsīt: the ancient Romans used to wear the hair and beard long, but after 300 B.C. adults wore the hair short and the facesmooth except when in mourning or deep trouble.

23. recubāns: the Romans usually reclined at their meals. (v. fig. 20.)

25. magistrātibus: A. 243, e; H. 414, IV.

26. igitur: used, as often, to resume the narrative, after the digression about Varro.

27. agēbat: the present tense would have been regular here; the past makes the time emphatic by contrast. A. 276, e, n.

28. erant: sc. eīs, dat. of possessor. — templīs: dat., cf. alveō, p. 1, l. 7. The ancients used to hang the spoils of war upon the walls of the temples.

2. patrum: cf. patribus, p. 37, l.

19.

3. equitēs: object of imitātae, which agrees with tribūs.

4. tabulae: these were thin pieces of wood smeared with wax on one side, which were written upon by a sharp instrument called a stilus. Usually two were hinged together to close like a double slate. The waxed side had a raised edge of wood to keep the writing from rubbing. Erasures were made by smoothing over the wax with the broad end of the stilus. See fig. 21.

7. redimendī suī: cons. A. 298, a; H. 542, I, n. 1.

10. iūrarent: cons. A. 320, c; H. 503, II, 3. — impetrāssent: not imperāssent. What form of condition? Put into dir. disc.

14. velutī aliquid oblītus: tr. pretending that he had forgotten something. For aliquid v. A. 219; H. 407.

18. iūreiūrandō: viz. the oath that he would return if allowed to go. Of course it was a palpable evasion of his promise.

20. Ea — frēgit: that event, more than anything else (māximē), checked Hannibal's presumption.

21. rēbus afflītis: tr. by a concessive clause.

22. esset: why subj.?

XX. Tiberius Gracchus et Gaius Gracchus.

Read Plutarch's Life of Tiberius Gracchus, and of Gaius Gracchus; A. H. Beesley's The Gracchi, Marius, and Sulla.

23. Gracchī: plural because two members of the family are named. — Scīpiōnis Āfricānī: the great general who conquered Hannibal in the battle of Zama, 202 B.C. The sister of the Gracchi was married to Scipio Africanus the younger, who destroyed Carthage in 146 B.C.

24. bonīs artibus: liberal studies or arts.

39. et — est: and all had great hopes of them.

Page 40. 1. Graecīs litterīs: before this time the average education of the Roman youth was confined mainly to reading, writing, arithmetic, and the laws of the Twelve Tables (see p. 17, l. 22). It was rudimentary and intensely practical. After about 100 B.C. Greek letters, in all departments of learning, became paramount in Roman education.

2. Māximum — sapientissima: note the chiasmic order of this sentence and its emphasis. Imitate the order in translation.

4. apud: cf. n. p. 14, l. 20.

6. redīrent: subj. because purpose is expressed as well as time.

10. poterant: the pluperfect subjunctive might be expected, but see A. 308, c.; H. 511, 1, n. 3. — perturbāre: the story of the Gracchi is here told from the standpoint of the aristocratic party, which was hostile to them. They were noble men, who sacrificed their lives for the welfare of the common people.

12. tribūnus plēbis: v. p. 17, l. 11. — creātus: 133 B.C.

14. agrōs: by the Licinian laws, passed 367 B.C., no one was to hold more than 320 acres of land. These laws had become a dead letter, and Tiberius Gracchus wished to revive them, with some changes of his own. The land of Italy and Sicily had been absorbed by a few rich men, who worked their estates with slaves; while Rome was filled with a landless, famishing crowd. — dīvidēbat . . . replēbat: what is the force of this tense here?

16. prōrogārī: the tribunate could not be held for two successive years by the same person.— interēptō senātū: no doubt an invention of his accusers, as well as the statement that follows.

19. quidnam: v. n. p. 14, l. 10.

20. Capitōlium: v. n. p. 38, l. 6.

21. quō signō: cf. n. on quae rēs, p. 21, l. 8.

22. diadēma: a royal crown, for which corōna is never used.

23. cum: concessive, though.

26. sequantur: not sequuntur.

29. subsellī: a movable bench without any back, and long enough to accommodate several persons. The illustration (fig. 22) is from an original found at Pompeii. The mob of aristocrats killed three hundred with the fragments of the benches.— potuerat: cf. poterat above.

FIG. 22.

Page 41. 2. Tribūnātum: 123 B.C. Gāius went somewhat farther in his reforms than Tiberius. He was of charming personality and of irresistible eloquence.

3. necis: depends on causā.

6. dabat: make clear the force of the tense.

7. quantā . . . contentiōne: with all their might.

8. bonī: i.e. the aristocrats.

13. quī: adv.

14. nōlim quidem . . . tibi . . . liceat = I should be quite unwilling to let you; nōlim is the potential subjunctive or the subjunctive in apodosis with omitted protasis, and is made emphatic by quidem. With liceat sc. ut.

16. partem petam: I shall ask for my share.—quō: v. n. p. 3, l. 24.

19. ut vidēret, etc.: the regular formula by which dictatorial power was conferred upon the consul, cf. Cic. Cat. I, § 4.

22. familiā: not family; v. voc.

27. Gāi: sc. corpus.

29. aurō repēsum: tr. and sold for its weight in gold. But what literally? v. voc.

30. infusō plumbō: by pouring in lead. — eum: i.e. Septimuleius.

31. quō, etc.: a purpose clause.

Page 42. 2. ut . . . animadverterētur: that punishment be inflicted.

4. dēprecātum: supine. — ignōscerētur: v. n. p. 19, l. 9.

5. tantī: A. 252 a; H. 403, 404.

12. sī . . . peccāveris: the indefinite second person singular with the subjunctive — you = any one. This kind of protasis is usually followed by an indicative in the conclusion stating a general truth, as here by est.

17. possit: cf. nōlim above, p. 41, l. 14. — eō plūs: more than that.

FIG. 23.

19. zōnās: broad double belts for carrying money about the person.

20. eās simply repeats zōnās, which is placed first for emphasis. So eās below repeats amphorās.

21. amphorās: a large earthenware vessel, terminating in a point at the bottom, so that it would stand upright in the ground, or remain stationary if leaned against a wall. The illustration (fig. 23) is taken from a wine shop's sign found at Pompeii.

XXI. Gnaeus Pompeius Magnus.

Read Plutarch's Life of Pompey, Church's Two Thousand Years Ago, and his Roman Life in the Days of Cicero, Chap. IX.

23. bellō cīvīlī: the civil war between Marius and Sulla, 88–82 B.C. Marius died in 86 B.C., but the war was carried on by his party after his death.

26. filī: he was at this time but nineteen.

Page 43. 1. hunc occidendum suscepit: undertook to kill him. The gerundive is here used as a participle to express purpose, cf. alendum, p. 5, l. 8.

2. incenderent: implied ind. disc.

3. nihil: not at all.

4. cum — ūsus est: treated Terentius with the same good-fellowship as before.

6. tentōriō: dat. with sub.

11. ducī: soon after this the elder Pompey was killed by a stroke of lightning. He was so hated that his corpse was snatched from the funeral bier, dragged through the streets of Rome, and thrown into the Tiber.

12. Sullae: 138–78 B.C. He served with distinction in Africa as quaestor under Marius in 107 against Jugurtha; took part in the campaigns against the Cimbri and Teutones, 102; conquered Mithridates king of Pontus, 88–84; and, after a struggle of many years, completely vanquished the Marian party and became dictator of Rome and Italy in 82. Though preëminently a military man, he was finely educated and took a great interest in literature. His great abilities were marred by monstrous cruelty and licentiousness. (Read Plutarch's Life of Sulla.)

13. annōs — nātus: when he was twenty-three years old. Note the idiom.

14. ut — venīret: in order to render aid to Sulla, i.e. against the Marian party. This was in 83 B.C., just after Sulla's return from the first Mithridatic war. (See note p. 46, l. 2.)

15. perītus: Pompey's natural military skill was phenomenal.

25. postea: cf. p. 29, l. 27.

26. honōrem: the antecedent of quem. Cp. p. 21, l. 8, and see note.

25. suam : sc. potentiam.
26. Eā vōce audītā : on hearing that remark, v. n. p. 1, l. 3.
28. Metellō : one of the most successful of Sulla's generals against the Marian party. In 80 B.C. Metellus was consul with Sulla himself ; and in the following year he went as proconsul into Spain, in order to prosecute the war against Sertorius, who adhered to the Marian party. For eight years he contended against Sertorius, but with so little success that the senate sent Pompey to his assistance.
29. Sertōrium : one of the greatest generals that ever lived, considering his scanty resources. He was more than a match for both Metellus and Pompey, but was assassinated 72 B.C. Read Plutarch's Life of Sertorius.

Page 45. 7. partiuntur : to be translated by what tense ?

The highest claim that the great Augustus has upon the grateful memory of all posterity has scarcely been mentioned by our author. It is his patronage of literature and literary men. Himself a tireless student and keen critic, he surrounded himself with all that was best and brightest in the world of learning. The Augustan Age is the golden age of Latin literature. It gave to the world Vergil, Ovid, Tibullus, Horace, and many others whose inspired words pay immortal homage to the virtues of their distinguished emperor and noble benefactor.

“ Who fears the Parthian or the Scythian horde,
Or the rank growth that German forests yield, While Caesar lives? Who trembles at the sword
The fierce Iberians wield?
Ah! be it thine long holy days to give
To thy Hesperia! thus, dear chief, we pray
At sober sunrise; thus at mellow eve,
When ocean hides the day.”

HORACE, Odes, iv. 5; Conington's Translation.

SUGGESTIONS TO STUDENTS.¹

1. In translating these exercises do not use an English-Latin dictionary. None is needed ; none will give the words required.

2. Depend upon the text and the notes for idioms and vocabulary.

3. Translate ideas, not words.

4. Do not render English words by Latin words from which they may be derived unless you are very sure of your ground ; honest is not honestus, nor secure sēcūrus.

5. Avoid the repetition of proper names as much as possible. When necessary refer to them by pronouns.

6. Try to keep the same subject throughout a sentence.

7. English prefers coördinate sentences loosely joined, Latin the periodic structure. (A. 345, Structure of the Period, N., 346 ; H. 573.)

8. Particular care is necessary in the use of conjunctions and pronouns.

9. In translating such an expression as 'the man I sent,' do not omit the relative which is understood in English, but write 'vir quem misi.'

10. If the relation between two nouns connected by a preposition cannot be expressed in Latin by the genitive, use a relative clause : e.g. 'the love for fatherland' = amor patriae,

'the road to Gaul' = via quae in Galliam dūcit.

11. Remember that Latin has no perfect active participle, excepting in the case of deponent verbs.

12. The present participle is rarely used as an attributive adjective, e.g. 'the running boy,' is not currēns puer, but puer quī currit.

13. Finally, remember that only by a careful preliminary study of the text can you translate the exercises readily, confidently, and accurately.

[] Derivations from roots are enclosed in square brackets. Such derivations are given only when the roots are included in the list of roots and word-groups, pp. 183-196.

(...) Secondary etymologies are enclosed in parentheses. Parentheses are also used to indicate such forms in the vocabulary as are incomplete: if substantives, they want the nominative case; if adjectives, the positive degree; if verbs, the present system.

— A dash in place of the genitive of a substantive, or of one of the principal parts of a verb, indicates that this case or this system is not in classical use.
